INTRO

Head Bartender Arathorn Grey and Chef Ryan Clift are proud to present our latest edition of 'A Guide To Modern Drinking' series - 6 Decades Of Music. We now take inspiration from one of the greatest international languages of all time - music. A journey through the ages dating all the way back from the timeless 1940's to the nostalgic 1990's, this cocktail menu celebrates some of the world's greatest musicians of all time.

'6 Decades Of Music' is the next piece to complete your Tippling Club experience with us and with others. Arathorn takes great pride in constantly curating new playlists for Tippling Club, and we invite you to fully immerse yourself in the sounds, sights and flavours we offer.

We hope that after you have enjoyed our music and cocktails here today, you are brought back to our humble place whenever you come across any music you hear no matter where you are in the world.

40S

Jazz and Blues dominated this era, with a prominent feature of big bands performing in unison with either a solo vocalist or a group. Music from this era is easily identifiable by its characteristic “flatness” when microphones could only record in a higher frequency. The 40s was also the decade when classic holiday songs came out. In this decade, we focus more on the creamier style of cocktails.

50s

The 50s gave birth to Rock and Roll, an energetic style of music that combined elements of R&B, pop, blues and hillbilly music. The Jitterbug and the Twist were also prominent dance styles during that decade. We imagined what cocktails one would have while listening to the specific artists live: a boozy, whisky cocktail when listening to Jazz and Blues or a fun, light and fruity cocktail to jive to Rock and Roll.

60s

Funk and Soul music gained popularity in this era, while Jazz, Pop and Folk music still remained strong with devoted listeners. Rock and Roll continued evolving with a clear split between “hard”, rebellious Rock and “soft”, lighter Rock. In this era, highly recognised as the hippie era, we incorporated more herbs and funk into the cocktails to reflect the decade.

70s

The 1970's was not a unique decade in terms of creating innovations in musical styles and genres, but it was unique in that it was a musical bridge connecting the hippie lifestyle of the 1960s with the characteristic yuppie lifestyle that was about to occur in the 1980s.

In this list we feature Chef Ryan's favourite band, Fleetwood Mac, a haunting yet calming style of music that has recently been brought back to popularity with its hit song - Dreams.

80s

Music in the 1980s was all about image and with the popularity of MTV, the images that accompanied artists became more important than ever. Nothing was understated when it came to music during the decade, not the sound, not the fashion, not even the charity. The 1980s reflected the beginning of a period of great income disparity and a focus on affluence was reflected in the music. There were also several new genres that popped up including Hip Hop, New Wave and Hair Metal.

90s

The musical era of the 1990s was one filled with a variety of pop, rap, and alternative music artists as well as a plethora of one-hit wonders. It was a time when musical taste was as varied as the events that were happening at the time. The early years of the 1990s began with a surge in popularity for music genres like Techno (often called Dance or House Music) and Hip Hop that continued throughout the decade.

OUTRO

Thank you for sharing this musical journey with us. Almost every minute spent creating this menu was accompanied with music in the background and with a drink in hand. As we continue to innovate and push boundaries, we are reminded of the famous words by Beyoncé “If everything was perfect, we would never learn and we would never grow.”

Whether it's your first time with us or you're a Tippling Club veteran, we appreciate you. We warmly invite you back to dine and drink with us again, and make Tippling Club a home as much as we have made it ours.
