

Clockwise from right: Rural Residence, which opened its doors in May of 1999, carries a variety of Caldrea products. The scene on Warren Street. Hudson Home was founded by Richard Bodin and Greg Feller in 2004. Foley & Cox Home is the brainchild of interior design duo Mary Foley and Michael Cox.

TEXT BY NICOLE HADDAD

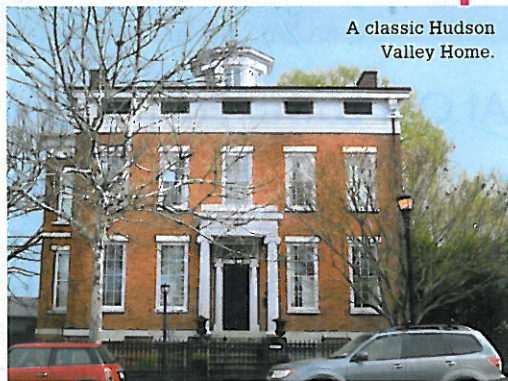

NEW YORK
HOME

HUDSON

A classic Hudson Valley Home.

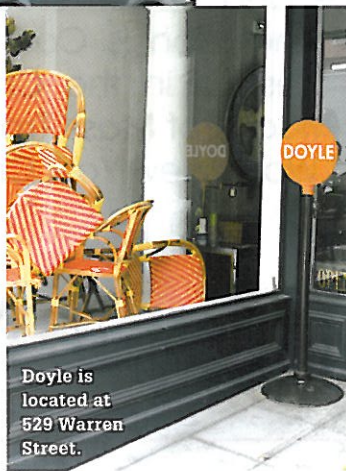

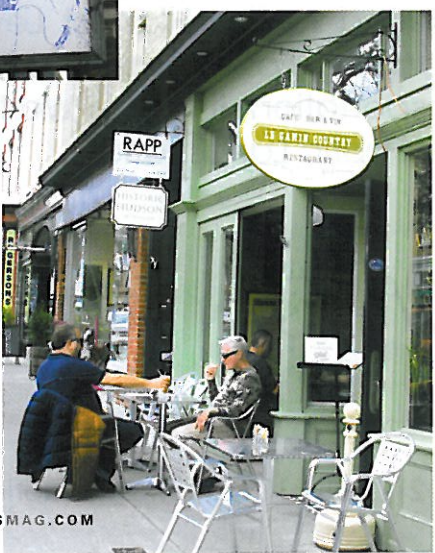

ON THE EAST BANK OF THE HUDSON RIVER AS IT winds through Columbia County lies a gem of a city that dates to pre-Revolutionary War days. Just a few decades back, Hudson, NY, was home to neglected storefronts in various stages of disrepair, sketchy alleyways, and a few brave antiques shops. In recent years, though, a burgeoning group of artists, designers, and design enthusiasts have picked up and moved to the waterside city to open up home design stores, antiques shops, galleries, and restaurants—turning it into the hip getaway it is now.

Despite a somewhat sleepy-town-feel mid-week, Hudson comes alive each weekend with excursionists intent on antiquing and design hunting amid the beauty of the Hudson River Valley. Culinary bon vivants in search of the best farm-to-table restaurants, such as Swoon Kitchenbar and relative newcomer Fish & Game, are also aplenty. The fortuitous migration of design-savvy urban dwellers to this rural haven has also yielded a huge upside—the restoration of many historic buildings and houses to their former (and various) architectural glories. GETTING THERE: A variety of trains provide service to Hudson including Amtrak, Adirondack, Empire Service and Ethan Allen Express. An Amtrak train from Penn Station CONTINUED >

Top and above: De Marchin offers a highly curated selection of modern apparel. Fun and creative signs line Warren Street. Right: Le Gamin Country restaurant serves delicious, authentic French fare.

Doyle is located at 529 Warren Street.