CERSAIE

Bologna - Italy

Inspired by the marble holy water fonts typically seen in churches of that period, the SETTECENTO washbasin signed by Giulio Cappellini reiterates the generous proportions of the basin and the external motif of regular grooves.

→ FLAMINIA.

Designed by Elena Salmistraro, SPIRE mimics the forms of a natural element, with a sculptural quality that underscores the beauty of the ceramic.

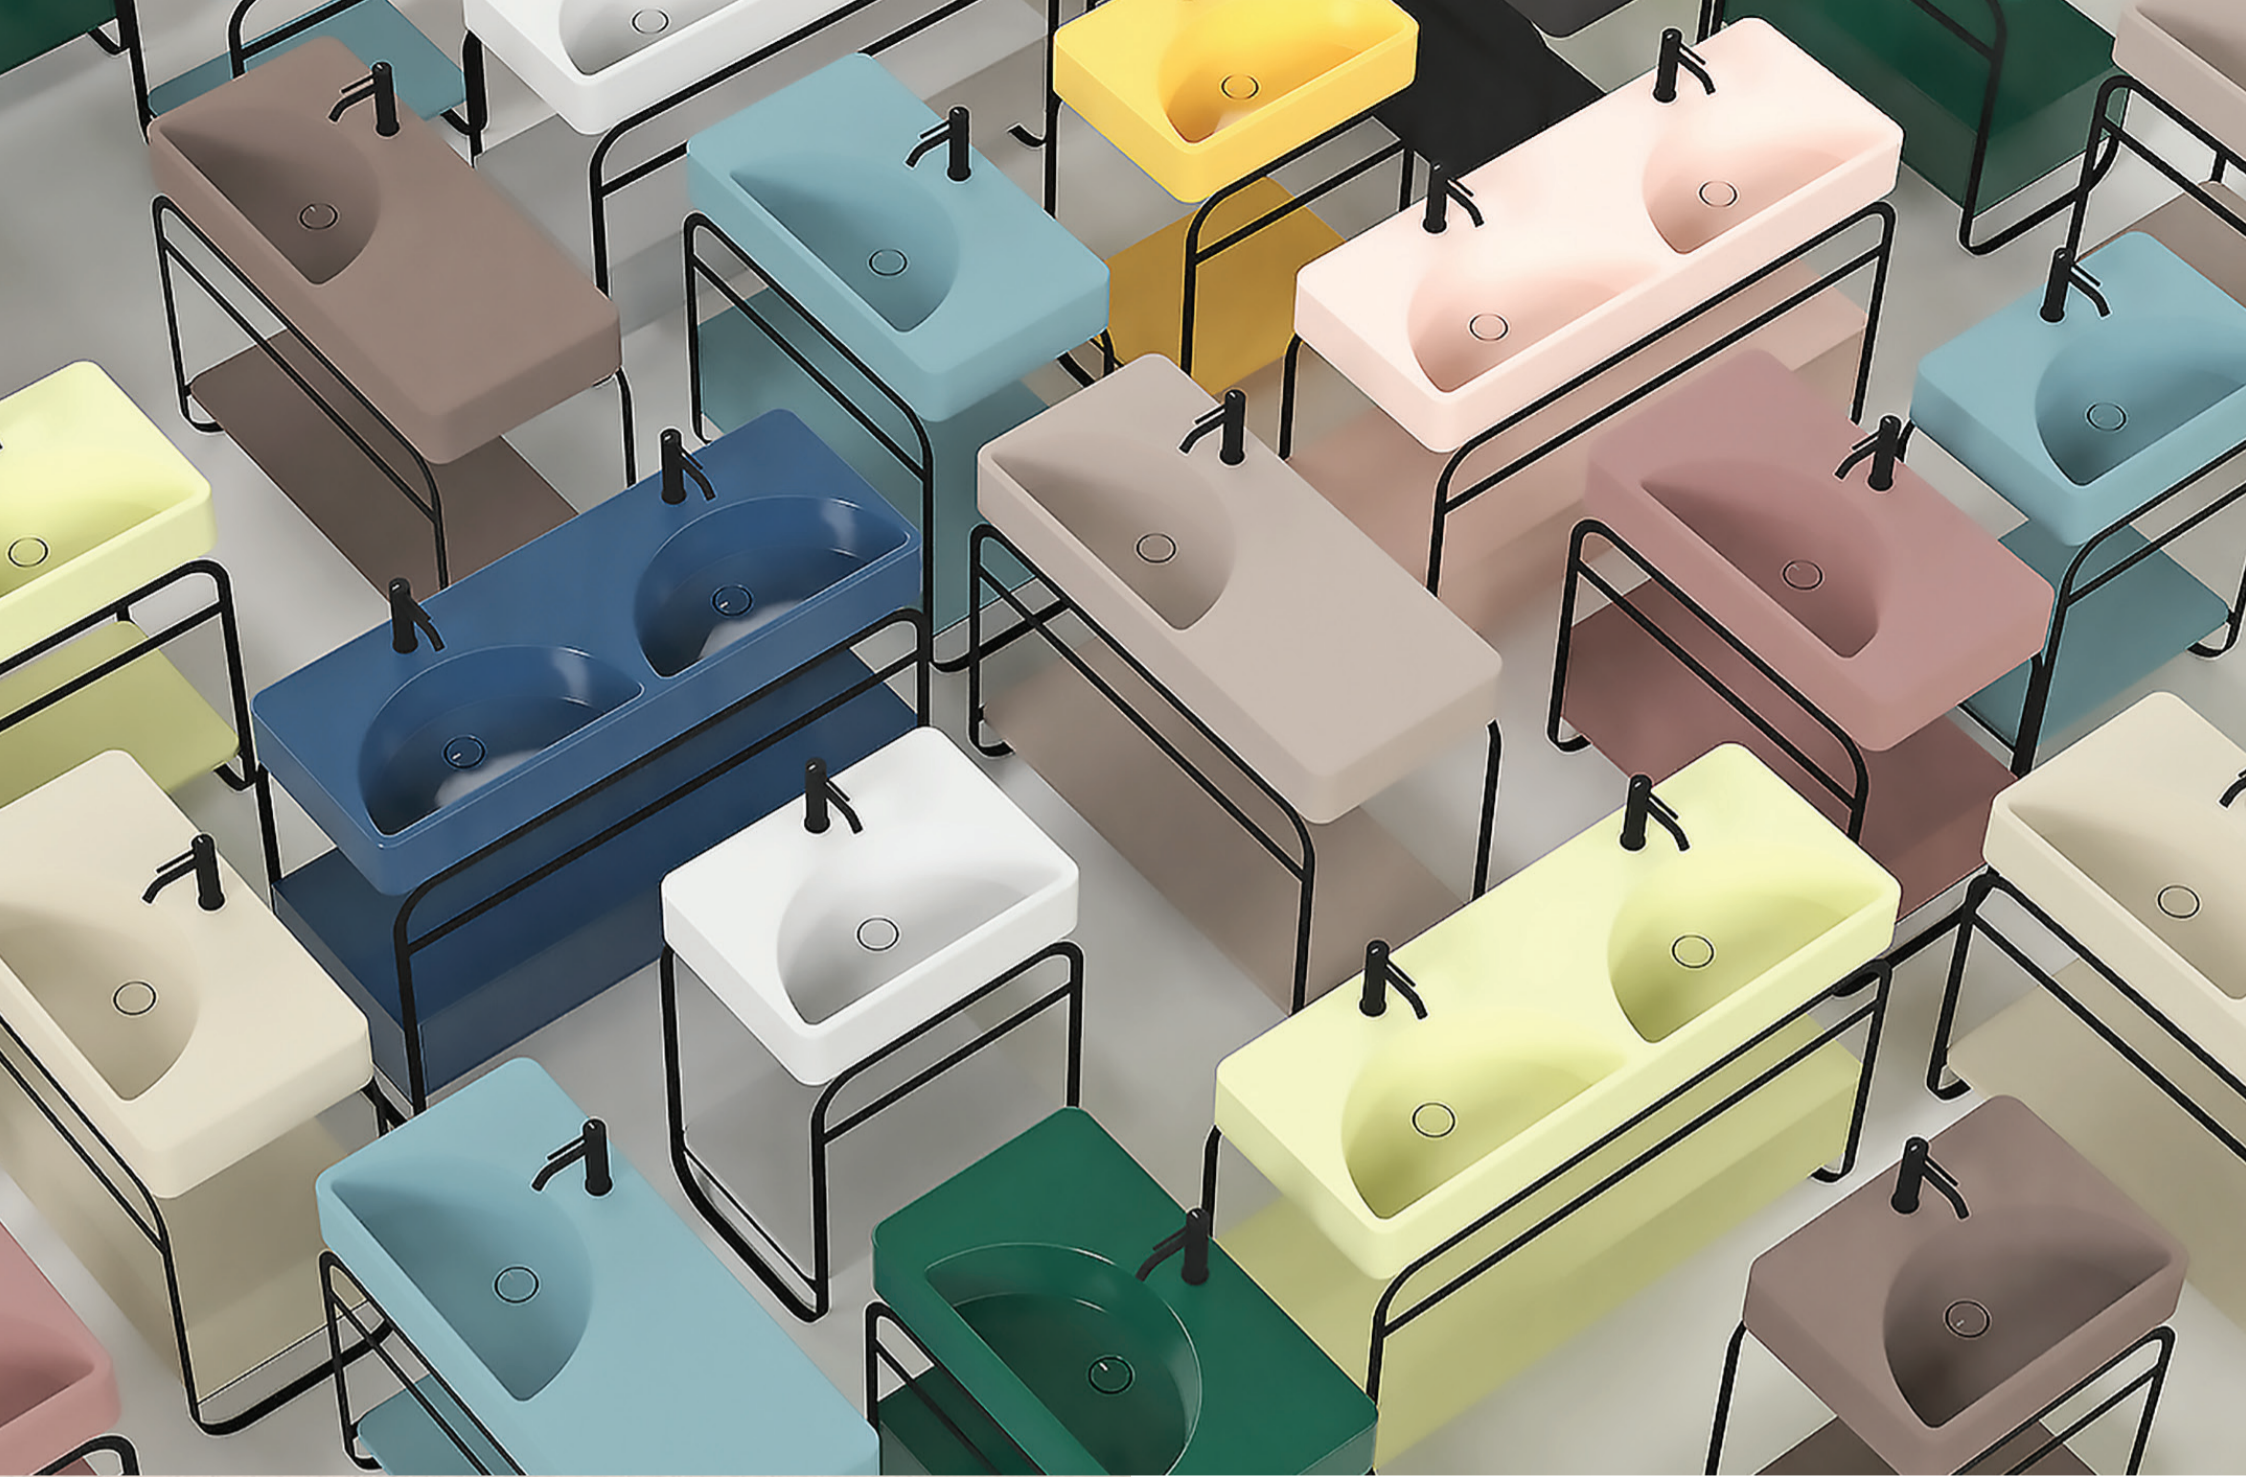

MONO & OPERA feature milled lines that characterise the “millerighe” surface texture.

CHURCH is a little work of architecture for the bathroom. A collage of metal pipes iconically bring to mind a church organ.

Boldly exploring originality, LUNARIS embraces the transformative potential of elegance and simplicity, blending classic and contemporary elements.

SENSING YOUR FUTURE

The new patented Time of Flight Sensor features CBS (Colour Background Suppression) technology results in greater precision, accurate detection and more efficient tapware operation.

Today more than ever we need to consider hygiene in our day to day lives. In a busy bathroom, tapware handles get a lot of usage which makes keeping it hygienic a real challenge. Fortunately the new Elementi range of Sensor Tapware provides a practical solution that's suitable for Residential, Healthcare and Commercial applications.

A standard Infra-Red sensor may struggle with Black/White coloured targets or reflective materials due to its limited technology whereby it measures the distance of the target by how bright the light is. The new patented Time of Flight Sensor that features CBS (Colour Background Suppression) technology overcomes this by emitting particles of light with the receiver counting how long the particles take to bounce back. This method is used to work out how far the target is based on the speed the light travels. Resulting in greater precision, accurate detection and more efficient tapware operation.

Our CBS Sensor guarantees detection and activation with greater reliability, even in the most restrictive environments (dim lighting, patterned clothing, shiny & reflective surfaces).
