MONROE HAND MADE FUNCTIONAL ARTWORKS

The skilled hands of craftsmen shape Raku clay, combining traditional skill with modern design to create unique and functional artworks, finished with a traditional craquelè glaze.

Raku is a type of clay that has been lost in the mists of time, when Japanese masters used to combine ceramics with the art of forging swords. Raku Clay is renowned for its strength, likened to the hard steel of a Japanese sword.

DESIGNER

Luca Papini was born in Brescia and studied at the Faculty of Architecture in Florence, graduating in Industrial Design at the IED in Milan. He has been recognised with multiple international design awards including the Good Design Award in 2006 and 2010, with special mention for his “innovative and environmentally friendly” product, and the ADA Archiproducts Design Award in 2018. Luca Papini currently teaches Product design at the European Institute of Design in Milan.

2021 ARCHIPRODUCTS
DESIGN AWARD

Since Zucchetti's iconic first collaboration with Studio Nizzoli, it has never stopped experimenting with the form and technology of the tap.

Architect David Lopez Quincoces uses a holistic approach to shape a line of taps designed to work in projects of many different typologies and natures: Helm, essential and iconic at once, reinterprets the cross handle tap through a fascinating decomposition and recomposition of cylindrical volumes, inaugurating Zucchetti's first all-stainless-steel adventure.

HOOP

MATTEO THUN AND ANTONIO RODRIGUEZ

Aesthetics and functionality are new and immediate. Designed by Italian designer and architect Matteo Thun and Spanish designer Antonio Rodriguez, Hoop, a push-button shower system, comes in a thermostatic version for bath and shower and can combine one to four water outlets.

Hoop can be teamed with any tapware collection and installed horizontally or vertically, permitting ample planning freedom and guaranteeing constant comfort and safety.
