market—buyers and suppliers alike reported success, posting significant gains in sales volume and new customer acquisition. Overall attendance hit an all-time high, fueled largely by recent explosive growth in gift and home décor resources, which resulted in gains of 22 percent in gift buyer attendance and 5 percent in home décor buyer attendance. Buyers attended from all 50 states and 77 countries. Top five feeder states were California, Nevada, Arizona, Texas and Washington.

"Winter Market was extremely strong with robust traffic. Despite weather-related travel delays, people were committed to getting here and we set another Las Vegas buyer attendance record," said Scott Eckman, executive vice president of marketing and furniture leasing, International Market Centers. "The industry has a real sense of optimism right now. We saw major exclusive-to-our-market product introductions and countless showroom expansions. Order writing also was fast and furious—a strong indicator that 2016 is starting off on very solid footing."

With the highest level of leasing activity in five years, the Winter Market offered buyers access to 330-plus new
