En honor al Bicentenario de los Estados Unidos, un amplio corte de los artistas más importantes norteamericanos: Robert Rauschenberg, Roy Lichtenstein, James Rosenquist, William Bailey, Allan D'Arcangelo, Ernest Trova, Richard Linder, Richard Anuszkiewicz, James Dine, Frank Stella, fueron comisionados por la firma Mobil Oil Corporation, con el fin de crear imágenes para una serie de afiches especialmente producida con el nombre de: América: El Tercer Siglo. Su visión colectiva en esta serie de originales afiches de arte servirá como un archivo visual de este momento en la historia.

Los afiches "América: El Tercer Siglo", han sido acordados en reconocimiento oficial por la Administración Bicentenario de la Revolución Americana.

"Actualmente estamos en una locura renovada de afiches... La popularidad de ellos evidencia, de hecho, una penetración entre el artista y su público... hoy, el ambiente que rodea a nuestra juventud le ha dado a los afiches una nueva audiencia y nuevos lugares donde exhibirlos - en sus cuartos, en corredores de campos universitarios, en galerías casuales de arte y en almacenes".
