Local organic farm producing flours with flavor! Stone milling is an ancient art and a modern science. Its key benefit is that the entire kernel of grain is ground so that the nutrient-rich bran and germ are incorporated into the flour instead of being stripped away. This is different than what happens in industrial roller mills that produce flours that are often "enriched" with chemical additives. Janie's Mill flours do not need to be enriched, because they have all the richness that nature put into each and every kernel. Four varieties available at the Garlic Press including an Italian sifted flour that's great for making pizza dough and a high gluten that is particularly good for breads. Find it on our grocery shelves inside the popcorn store.
