A Proven Follow-up System That Works

As promised, the exact wording and system I have used for years to build relationships and offer customer support is below!

Before I get to that though, here are a few suggestions on how you can add to the customer experience. You might send a handwritten card to express your thanks rather than sending a second email. Personally, I would include a "Connect with me" magnetic business card that has a QR code to my Facebook and my coleherbals.com pages, and my phone number.

My Follow-Up System

First Step:

Second Step:

Compose your three emails using the information on the Trello card. You may use the exact wording I use or create your own. Click here for my wording. Just remember to follow up using whatever system works for you! It is incredibly easy to just refer, refer, refer, and never follow up; but, things that take a little bit of time create bigger rewards.

If you need help with Trello or a system that will work better for you, let me know! Helping people helps me!
