

“Autumn / Winter is rooted in experimentation with colour and fabric”, says Christopher Ræburn. “Our approach to style, provenance and function has evolved into a practical and feminine collection”.

Entitled ‘Optics’, the collection draws inspiration from the Maunsell Sea Forts — WWII naval defenses off the coast of England — the stark contrast between vivid naval colours and disruptive fort textures running throughout the collection. The atmosphere at the Autumn / Winter presentation echoes this setting, an original audio soundtrack developed on location from reverberating ocean sounds.

Ræburn’s talent for sourcing, designing and creating the most pioneering of fabrics is more evident than ever.

For Autumn / Winter he has developed a unique felted wool fabric, a natural move forward on Spring’s laminated lace. Pieces become rain resistant with the addition of Teflon — another illustration of the Ræburn signature of blending the practical with the original. Wool highlights include the Military Blouson, inspired by a 1950’s battle dress jacket, which has been given a contemporary vision with its box shape and fluoro trim.

Another significant fabric development is the bespoke Wool Dégradé; the grains in the wool created especially by Ræburn in a textured gradient pattern, shading from light to dark. Stand-out pieces in this range are the Jumpsuit and Belted Mac. These are complimented by heavier pieces in charcoal check, re-appropriated from vintage fabric.

The separates offering has been broadened to include form-fitting dresses and skirts, the fabric re-appropriated from Russian Breton knitwear. Military-grade mesh fabric has also been introduced, layered over fluoro pink shower-proof fabric to add a graphic and feminine edge to pieces such as the beautifully cut Bomber and Parka.

The Lightweight collection includes quilted outerwear lined with recycled material, such as the Cap-Sleeve Jacket and warming Gilet. The trademark lightweight parkas have been perfected and are now offered in a variety of iridescent colourways.

The accessory offering also continues to expand alongside apparel, complimenting both the palette and fabrications. The Animal bags feature this season’s ‘water rat’ character in distressed silver leather as well as pops of pink. New developments include phone pouches, Box Clutch bags and the new Contour bag which rests against the shape of the body. All bags are made in England.
