

Triarchy
Responsible Denim

PRE-FALL '23

Triarchy Pre-Fall '23 solidifies the brand as the leader in plastic free-stretch with three brand exclusive fabrics launching in our best selling styles.

Triarchy is the only denim brand in the world to have completely eliminated oil-derived poly-based stretch materials and replace them with plastic-free stretch, derived from natural rubber. This means no micro-plastics and a less than two year biodegradation time at end of life.

Triarchy PF '23 introduces cut outs & laser monogramming which is applied to our signature fabric to make a kaleidoscopic brand exclusive print. Introducing unconventional shapes that lean into denim is what gives the brand such a strong fashion POV, all the while adhering to the manufacturing and wash practices that make Triarchy the most responsible denim brand in the market.

The PF collection is available in an industry first acid and bleach wash that contain no acid or bleach. We develop the material to be shades lighter than the industry standard so that it requires considerably less processing to get to the desired light vintage shades.

As always, QR codes can be found within each garment, once scanned, revealing the products consumption metrics and block chain verified supply chain map. As well, one can scan and see details on the three projects that each sale contributes to making the garments carbon neutral. One tree planted for every pair of jeans sold.

All of these efforts allow us to make the best pair of jeans possible, in every sense of the word best.

Triarchy is the only denim brand in the world to have completely eliminated oil-derived poly-based stretch materials and replace them with plastic-free stretch, derived from natural rubber. This means no micro-plastics and a less than two year bio-degradation time at end of life, instead of the industry standard 200+ years.

ORGANIC COTTON

Triarchy's organic Cotton is cotton which is grown without harmful pesticides and toxic chemicals. In greenhouse gas emissions alone this allows for a 46% reduction over traditional cotton. Because organic cotton contains no pesticides the crop requires less water to cultivate. The amount of water that is used contributes no soil or groundwater contamination which is what allows the soil to regenerate and continue cultivating fresh crops year after year.

PLASTIC-FREE STRETCH

COREVA™ is the world's first compostable stretch denim fabric. A technology patented by Candiani Denim that uses elastic yarns obtained from natural rubber in place of synthetic yarns. It is circular and unlike other fabrics it does not release microplastics throughout its lifecycle, from production to composting, because it does not contain elastane, the synthetic material used to produce stretch fabric.

NON-TOXIC BLACK DYE

This industry first sustainable black denim is firstly achieved by using a sulphur based dye. Secondly we require a fixing agent to get the dye to stick to the fabric. Chitosan is a polymer that is derived by recycling the exoskeleton of shrimp but because of our unwillingness to use animal products and therefor our PETA status, we decided to try mushrooms in place of shrimp. It worked, and now we have the worlds first truly responsibly made black jeans.

WHAT DOES RESPONSIBLE DENIM MEAN?

Triarchy only manufactures jeans that fit into our strict lens of responsible denim manufacturing.

This means only choosing fabrics that are made with 100% organic cotton, (and verifying the certification of the cotton), and then mixing it with either recycled cotton, Tencel, Refibra or hemp.

We also eliminated plastic stretch from our brand and replaced it with an industry first natural rubber alternative to plastic stretch.

We make our jeans in a factory that uses state-of-the-art washing equipment that drastically reduces chemical use and water consumption.

We then have 3rd party auditors verify our supply chain and manufacturing practices and allow them to publish their findings independent of us.
