ADAM KAPLAN

Adam Kaplan is the President and founder of DCCSupply. Adam entered the merchant processing space in April of 2006 as an agent working the street. Soon realizing that he enjoyed the hardware and accessory supply side of the business he launched a web presence to distribute paper supplies, terminals, and stands. This has grown to 25 full-time employees providing services and components that are related to the payment industry to ISOs, Agents, ISVs, and merchants all over the country.

DCCS focuses on quick turnaround of deployments, accessory solutions and supplies. Adam also designed and produces a line of custom metal stands for payment devices under the brand DCCStands. And if you remember the keyboard protective spill covers on all the credit card devices during COVID, maybe you saw them at Trader Joes, Tractor Supply, or Costco, then there is high chance they were designed and manufactured by DCCSupply, who was already producing these covers five years before COVID.

Adam went to the University of Georgia, studied International Business and Japanese. He skis, plays paddle tennis, and runs triathlons.

DCCSupply received the Inc. 5000 fastest growing companies award for the years 2015, 2016, 2017, 2022, and 2023.
