Diagrams

Using FRIDGE

1. Turn FRIDGE on by pressing the ON/OFF Button once.

- The Indicator Light flashes Green to show FRIDGE is on.
- If the Indicator Light doesn't flash Green, charge FRIDGE (see below).

2. Place FRIDGE anywhere in your refrigerator.

- Take care not to put anything against the Top Air Vent or Rear Air Intake.

3. Turn FRIDGE off by pressing the ON/OFF Button again.

Note: The Indicator Light always flashes green whenever the refrigerator door is open and FRIDGE has enough charge. The Indicator Light turns off automatically whenever the refrigerator door is closed to preserve battery life, but FRIDGE is still working.

Charging

Beeping and a Red Indicator Light tell you that FRIDGE needs charged. Connect a powered USB-C Cable to the Charging Port. FRIDGE is charged and ready when the Charging Port Light changes from Red to Green.

Initial charging time varies and can take up to eight hours, so you might simply let it charge overnight. After this first charge, it will only take four to six hours to charge. The charge will last about three weeks before needing to be charged again.

Cleaning

It is best to clean FRIDGE every 6 months.

1. Remove FRIDGE from your refrigerator and turn it off.
2. Vacuum out the Rear Air Intake and the Top Air Vent.
Note: Blowing air into the Rear Air Intake or Top Air Vent in order to clean FRIDGE is not advised. Doing so may limit the quality of the purified air produced by FRIDGE.
3. Dip a cotton swab in isopropyl alcohol and insert it into the Top Air Vent. Gently rotate the swab and clean the entire area until all visible contamination has been removed. Use a clean cotton swab to dry the cleaned area. Repeat with the Rear Air Intake.
4. Wipe down the outside of FRIDGE with a damp cloth.
5. Let FRIDGE dry before charging or resuming operation.
