ABOUT ALLISON EDEN

In New York's free-spirited but revered arts/fashion/design community, the name Allison Eden is synonymous with mosaic artistry. For the better part of the last 30 years, her dazzling, intricate, one-of-a-kind works of art have graced all manner of surfaces—from custom backsplashes and eye-catching wall accent pieces in high-end homes and commercial spaces, to high-profile retail applications and several well-known hospitality and entertainment establishments.

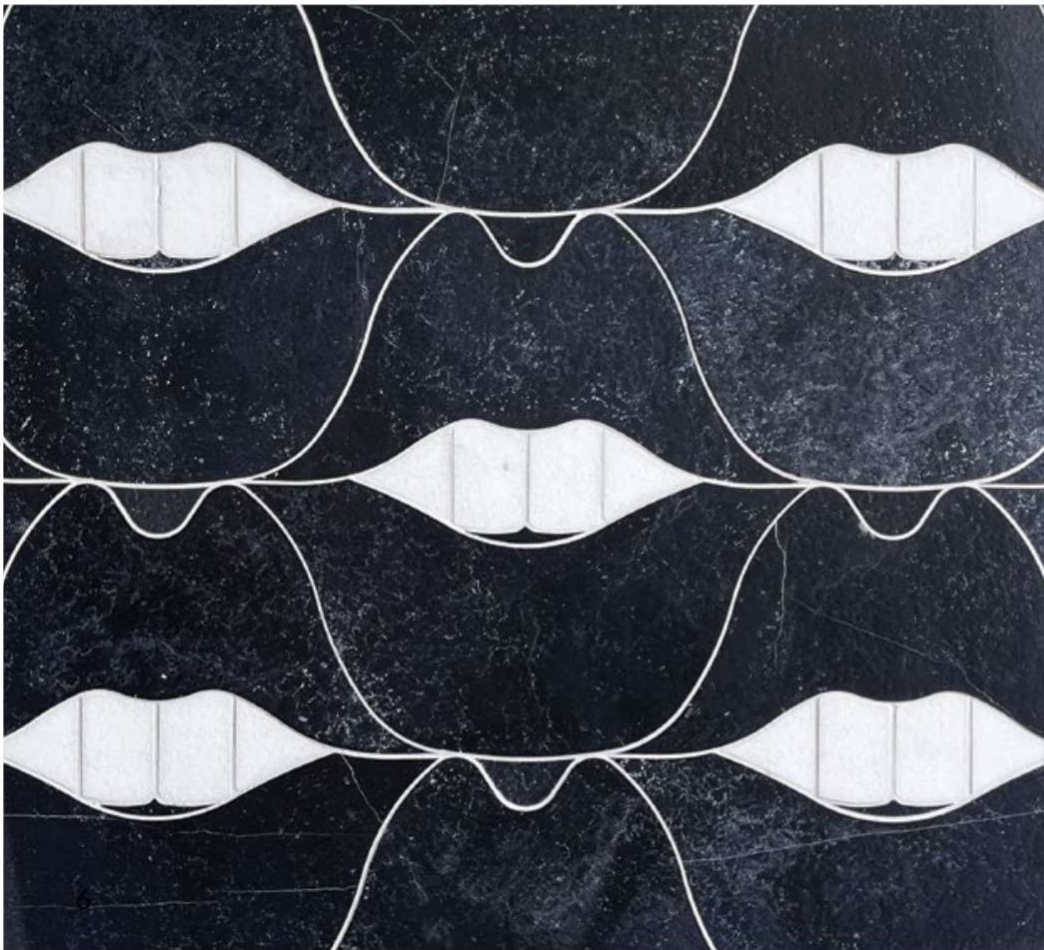

Now, Eden and her namesake design studio is taking the next logical step by applying scores of her signature designs and instantly recognizable creations to the so-called "fifth" wall: the floor. For this initiative, she worked with a specialty supplier on this stunning new stone collection.

Each supplier Eden has teamed up with has the capability to scan her designs using sophisticated digital printing technology. Furthermore, as bonafide manufacturers in their own right, they can handle all the complex production details to ensure the products meet all relevant specifications as far as performance, durability and installation are concerned. For her part, Eden is charged with selecting the standout designs from the treasure trove of patterns she has created over the past three decades. But make no mistake—it's not as easy as it sounds. Whereas some artists utilize computer-assisted design tools to create custom images, everything at Allison Eden Studios is all done manually—no power tools or machinery. That includes sketching the patterns on which the mosaic designs are based. While it's a labor of love for Eden, it's also a labor-intensive, time-consuming endeavor.

Ultimately, for Eden, it's about creative expression and doing what you love. Allison recalls that New York was once the mecca for manufacturing. "What we do here is creative manufacturing. I can stay in my city, be creative and employ other people who love to do what I do. The world is in a weird place right now, and I truly believe what we're doing here every day makes people happy." – Allison Eden
