Ischia, the biggest island in the Gulf of Naples is well-known all over the world as “the Green Island” and “the Isle of Eternal Youth”.

These definitions are based on its richness in pinewoods, citrus plantations and vineyards but primarily on its wonderful thermal water, famous since ancient times and even mentioned by Homer in his Iliad, by Virgil in his Aeneid as well as by Pliny and Strabo.

Such historical quotations are the best evidence that thermal water has always been associated with health and beauty.

Exfoliating action: The glycolic acid performs a delicate peeling of the surface of the skin, and helps with the treatment of skin dyschromia (age spots).

Hydrating action: Thanks to the proteins contained in the snail slime, the tissues are oxygenated and hydrated.

Antioxidant action: Vitamins C and E have the ability to reduce inflammations and fight free radicals.
