STEP-BY-STEP INSTRUCTIONS

1

Unfold and lay out the heart base on a flat surface.

2

Before you start gluing, make sure you know where each part goes. Check out the "How To Match The Side Walls To The Heart Frame" part in the next pages to get it right.

3

Use your low-temperature glue gun to attach the side walls along the edge of the heart base. If there are excess side walls, use your cutter to remove them.

4

Insert the back stand into the base. After inserting the stand, you might want to apply some glue around the dents to ensure extra stability. Then, insert the entire assembly into the heart base. Feel free to apply some glue around the joints of the base as well, to make it even more stable!

HOW TO FILL THE HEART FRAME WITH BALLOONS

1 Blow up your balloons – you may use a pump for faster results.

2 Attach your balloons using one glue dot for each balloon. If you need more than one dot, no worries! Your glue dot roll comes with plenty 😊 Alternatively, you can use a low temp glue gun instead of glue dots.

To avoid any dark spots at the top of your balloons (this is a common issue with some balloons brands), try turning the balloons sideways as you glue them onto the frame. This small adjustment can make a big difference in the final look of your creation.

3 Once you've added the first layer of balloons to fill the frame, you can fill the small gaps between the larger balloons by intentionally inflating more balloons to about half their usual size, or even smaller if needed. This makes the balloons smaller and fitting the spaces between the larger ones. Your final design will appear much fuller and beautiful! 🥰

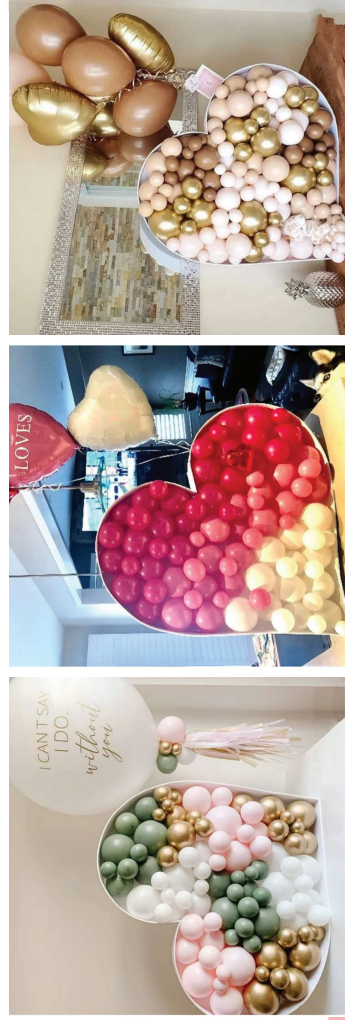

4 Continue until the heart is completely filled!
