

Moonlight Solar Chime™ by Woodstock Chimes® Shines on Outdoor Summer Living

SHOKAN, N.Y., May 19, 2020 – As the weather warms and outdoor activities resume, Woodstock Chimes, the leading manufacturer of musically tuned windchimes, has launched the Moonlight Solar Chime™. It features a high quality solar-powered light that rests in the chime's circular, beveled wooden top. When the sun sets and moonlight emerges, the light illuminates. Perfect for a variety of décors, the chime is available with five aluminum tubes in either Bronze (SKU: MOONBR) or Silver (SKU: MOONS). Tuned to the traditional scale of a Balinese shadow puppet play, the new release was among the company's top five new products for the winter 2020 markets and joins the company's other popular solar chimes, Aloha Solar Chime™, Capiz Solar Chime and Illumination Solar Chime™. Woodstock Chimes includes rechargeable batteries with all solar chimes.

“Nothing beats a little outdoor music and soft lighting during warm summer evenings,” said Garry Kvistad, founder and owner of Woodstock Chimes and a GRAMMY® Award-winning musician. “The Moonlight Solar Chime has one of our most popular tunings and the ambience it provides is as enchanting as a moonlit night. The solar panel can easily be covered to make the light come on in the store, attracting customers and generating sales. All our solar chimes are beautiful by day and magical by night, and these new designs, with a solar light added to a classic style Woodstock Chime, are sure to become favorites.”

Featuring teak finish ash wood, the Moonlight Solar Chime measures 29-inches in overall length. Both chimes have removable windcatchers, which customers can take to their local customization shop to have a personalized message silk-screened or engraved. They come ready to give in a kraft gift box and retail for $60. Click here to see a video of the solar-powered light illuminating at dusk.
