Textile Waste Processors & Wiping Cloth Manufacturers

Coppermill
TEXTILE RECYCLING & WIPING CLOTH MANUFACTURERS
SINCE 1920

OVERVIEW & WIPER GUIDE

Textile Recycling

We collect waste textiles by the tonne from various industries and sectors, including hospitality, healthcare, and retail.

Wiping Cloth Manufacturer

Textiles are diverted from landfill and recycled into eco-friendly cleaning rags for industrial and domestic cleaning and wiping.

For a greener solution to your business cleaning requirements

Founded in 1920, Coppermill Ltd specialises in manufacturing and distributing premium reusable cleaning rags sourced from 100% recycled textiles, transforming them into essential tools for your cleaning and wiping needs.

In 1984 Coppermill Ltd was awarded a Royal Warrant for services to Queen Elizabeth II the Royal Household.

A MESSAGE FROM OUR MANAGING DIRECTOR

Marc Ratzker

“I COULDN’T BE PROUDER OF WHERE WE’VE BEEN TO WHERE WE ARE NOW”

First of all, I’d like to personally thank you for considering Coppermill Ltd as your trusted supplier of industrial cleaning wipers.

Coppermill Ltd started life as a man and his horse called Hercules, circuiting the streets of a post-World War 1 East London in search of unwanted textiles, metal, scrap, literally anything that could be recycled. This man was Jack, my grandad, who literally built his business with his own hands on Cheshire Street in Bethnal Green, the very same street we continue to trade today, only now we’re in a purpose-built recycling facility, recycling hundreds of tons of textile waste per year and offering them new life in the form of industrial cleaning rags. I couldn’t be prouder of where we’ve been to where we are now.

By choosing to work with, or purchase from Coppermill Ltd you are supporting our mission to divert as much textile waste from landfill as possible and create a more sustainable and greener future for businesses around the country. It’s always a pleasure talking with like-minded businesses and working together on bespoke solutions to their cleaning requirements through our eco-friendly cleaning rags.

Though Jack and Hercules are no longer with us, their work ethic remains as strong in our daily operations today as it was back in 1920, and I’m proud to build on what they started.

Kind regards,
Marc

& QUALITY-CONTROL

COLLECTIONS & SORTING

Upon collecting the raw materials from industrial laundries the materials are brought back to our Recycling Facility in East London, from here the textiles are sorted by hand into their unique grades.

We are one of the few facilities who still separate out the 100% cotton hotel sheeting as it's own pure grade rather than mix it in with other poly or linen sheets.

Once the textiles have been graded they are prepared for cutting, or will be baled and securely stored for future use.

CUTTING

Every order we receive, from our 1kg compact bags of rags right up to half-tonne bales are hand cut to order.

All textiles are cut by hand to ensure an additional quality control check where each member of the cutting team will check that the materials are consistent and in line with our high expectations of our product.

Each textile is cut into handy, generously-sized wipers approximately 24" in length and 16" in width.

BALING

We have 4 x 10kg textile baling compacting machines, each capable of producing 30-40 squeeze-pack bales per hour. Alongside these machines we also have 2 x 25kg machines, and a purpose-built industrial baler capable of producing 500kg bales in just a few minutes.

Our standard packs consist of 10kg bales for light wiping rags such as sheeting and coloured grades, and 8kg for heavier grades such as towelling and tea towels.

We are also able to produce bespoke bags, such as 5kg half-weight bales and rags in cardboard cartons. We can also create bespoke pallets of any quantity up to 81 bales per pallet.
