We are Native American owned and eco-conscious. Our products are organic or wild-harvested, locally produced, and inspired by time-tested Native American wisdom.

Hand crafted in Petoskey, Michigan

About Us

Organic and natural were a way of life for our Native American ancestors. They created medicines from plants and built shelters and transportation from biodegradable materials like birch bark. They mastered the art of living in harmony with nature, then drew wisdom and knowledge from it.

We honor our ancestor's wisdom by producing healing, herbal products. Some of our products are created from ancient Native American formulas, and have stood the test of time for safety, effectiveness, and purity.

Nathan Wright's Great (4 times) Uncle, George Apaquosh lived on Whitefish Island in between Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario and Michigan in the 19th century.
