WALLAL CENTENARY AUSTRALIA TESTS EINSTEIN'S THEORY

In 1922, the eyes of the international scientific community were focused on an expedition of scientists to Wallal, Western Australia to photograph a total eclipse due on 21 September.

Precise measurements of the apparent position of the stars near the eclipsed Sun were photographed and provided the evidence supporting Einstein's revolutionary Theory of General Relativity.

To celebrate the centenary, the Royal Australian Mint have struck an uncirculated aluminium bronze $1 and a domed shape, $5 silver proof.

GILT DRAGON SHIPWRECK

Wrecked of the coast of Western Australia on 28th April 1656 - the Vergulde Draeck or the Gilt Dragon layed untouched and undiscovered for over 300 years! As part of the Dutch East India Company (V.O.C) fleet, the Vergulde Draeck set sail from Holland on her second voyage to Batavia (modern day Jakarta) in the East Indies.

75 survivors made it to shore and a small contingent set sail to Batavia, but three searches failed to discover the wreck or survivors.

When the Gilt Dragon sank, it was carrying wooden chests filled with Spanish silver coins intended to be used for trade purposes. Spanish American coinage are uniform in weight and purity and those silver coins were hand struck on crudely cut blanks.

A total of 4288 coins have been certified and authenticated by the Western Australian Museum and are now held in institutions or private hands. Only 1508 of them are eight reales or "piece of eight" from the Mexico City Mint.
