

HELLO, ROCK

by
ROGER BRADFIELD

Purple House Press
Kentucky

Hello, rock.
Gee, you're a pretty rock.

Are all these other rocks
your friends?

Is this one your mother?

Is this one your father?

There are lots of things I could do with a nice rock like you.

I could take you home to show
my mother.

Or I could throw you at a tree.
And maybe hit it. But probably not, because I don't throw so straight yet.

