

bits & pieces

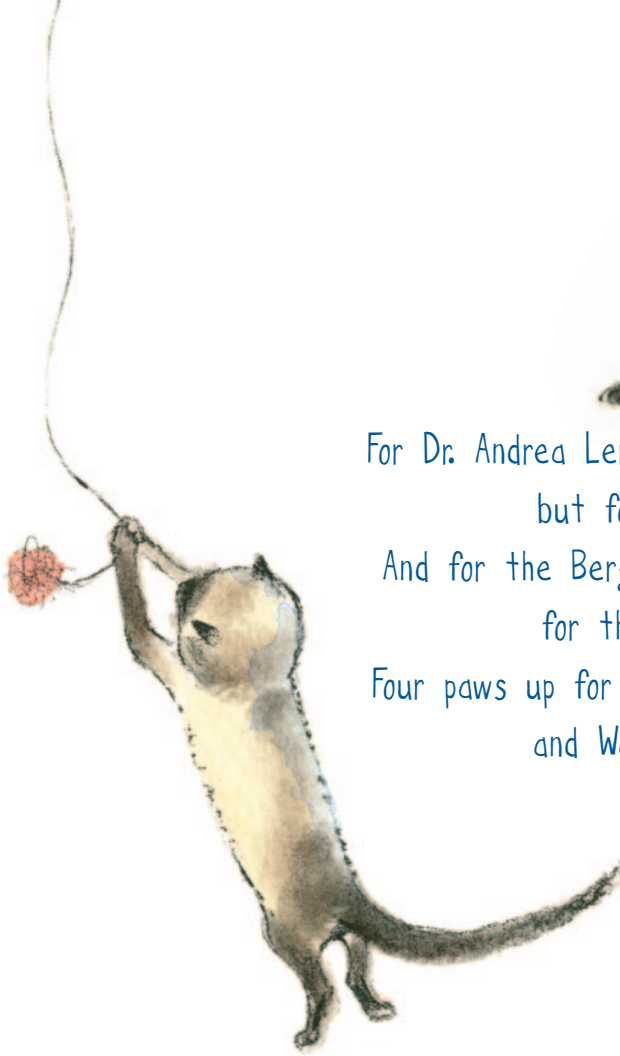

judy schachner

bits & pieces

judy schachner

Purple House Press
Kentucky

For Dr. Andrea Lerner, who is not “just for cats,” but for their humans, too.
And for the Bergstrom family, thanks especially for the fresh pink salmon.
Four paws up for Annie and Michaela, the Holmes and Watson of Swarthmore.

Copyright © 2013 by Judy Schachner
All rights reserved

Published by Purple House Press
PO Box 787
Cynthiana, Kentucky 41031

Summary: Tink has everything he ever wanted—delicious treats, hugs and kisses, and even a kitten to raise. The only thing missing is wild outdoor adventure. So when the opportunity arises, Tink sneaks out—and becomes an outdoor cat for one unforgettable night.

The art was done with charcoal pencil, pan pastels, watercolor, and cut paper.

ISBN 9781948959872

Classic Living Books for Kids and Young Adults
purplehousepress.com

For a cat, Tink was an odd duck.

or maybe it was because his brain was the size of a frozen pea.

Perhaps it was because he had been raised by a grannyman . . .

No matter, his family loved their boy to bits.

