

PRINCESS MARGARET

“Swaying and singing in the middle of the room, a lit cigarette in one hand, a tumbler of scotch in the other, was the munchkin-sized Princess Margaret, barefoot, dressed in a knee-length black cocktail dress.”

p. 237, Death at the Savoy

Name: Princess Margaret

Occupation: Princess

Connection to Douglas McIntyre: You encountered him at upper-class soirées here in London.

Secrets: You have been having an affair with the caviar tycoon, Turner Anguille.

Why you're at the party: You fear McIntyre found out about the affair and it's in his book.

Relationships: Turner Anguille is your secret lover. Poppy Anguille you view as competition. You're friendly with everyone else.

Before the party: You attended a charity croquet match. You left early because you were losing, and your chauffeur drove you straight to the hotel.