

NOËL COWARD

“Tall and tanned, dapper in a perfectly tailored dark blue suit fitted at his tailor, Ede and Ravenscroft of Savile Row, Noël raised insouciant eyebrows as he crossed to Priscilla’s desk.”

p. 57, Death at the Savoy

Name: Noël Coward

Occupation: Actor, playwright

Connection to Douglas McIntyre: You've worked together on various projects

Secrets: Your latest project was a tell-all book of Hollywood secrets, but someone beat you to the punch—Douglas McIntyre.

Why you're at the party: You're upset that McIntyre stole your idea to write a Hollywood tell-all, but curiosity has gotten the best of you. And you love an open bar.

Relationships: You've been interviewed by Percy Hoskins before. You're friends with Poppy (a fellow theater-lover). You're friendly with everyone else.

Before the party: You were having a drink at the bar prior to the event and spilled on yourself. You got cleaned up in the bathroom before returning for the party.
