

Made in May this year in the company of serenading Lyrebirds and (relieved to have escaped to the bush) home-schooling children, this throng of ferns (False Bracken - Calochlaena dubia) takes its name from the strangeness of these times when supermarket shopping feels oppressive, even claustrophobic and a few seems a crowd.

Mary Tonkin 2020