George Sand

TRUE GENIUS, TRUE WOMAN

- WORDS BY SÉVERINE VIDAL
- ART BY KIM CONSIGNY
- TRANSLATED BY EDWARD GAUVIN

A graphic biography of female novelist George Sand, whose life and work championed women's rights, gender expression, and sexual liberation

A scrupulously researched and tenderly revealing biography of one of the great pioneering figures of 19th-century French literature. Born in 1804 – at a time when women were deprived of their civil rights (along with minors, criminals, and the insane) – Amantine Lucile Aurore Dupin grew up to defy those norms, both in her life and her writing. Adopting the gender-neutral pen-name George Sand, and in a career lasting over forty years as a novelist and playwright, she is best remembered today for the affairs and friendships she enjoyed with men: the composer Chopin; the painter Delacroix; the novelist Balzac. But this moving biographical portrait, written by Séverine Vidal and illustrated by Kim Consigny, restores her to the centre-stage she always commanded in her lifetime. Not just as the daring, scandalously cross-dressing, bisexual, cigarette-smoking divorcée novelist, but as the brilliant chronicler of her changing time – and therefore of ours.

Séverine Vidal was born in 1969, lives in Gironde in the South of France, and has worked as a full-time writer for over ten years. A prizewinning author of Children's and Young Adult fiction, her debut online work, A Tale Off the Top of My Head, illustrated by Claire Fauchet (2012), was described as an "outstanding" work of "poetic writing".

Kim Consigny was born in 1991 in the south of France, and qualified as an architect there in 2015, but has increasingly devoted herself since to a full-time celebrated career in illustration, including a long-standing collaboration with Séverine Vidal.

HOW TO SURVIVE MODERN LIFE

- WORDS BY DR. FRÉDÉRIC FANGET AND CATHERINE MEYER
- ART BY PAULINE AUBRY
- TRANSLATED BY EDWARD GAUVIN

In The Anxiety Club we are introduced to three characters, each with a different form of anxiety. After hearing their stories, we follow them into the therapy room where they discover the behavioral, cognitive and emotional tools to help free themselves from anxious thinking. Many people believe that there is no treatment for anxiety: they try to soothe their inner suffering with medication, alcohol, drugs or binge eating. However, there are healthy ways to manage such negative thoughts and feelings. This self-help handbook, written by psychiatrist Dr. Frédéric Fanget and editor Catherine Meyer and drawn by Pauline Aubrey, helps the reader to identify, understand and find freedom from anxiety.

Author Dr. Frédéric Fanget is a psychiatrist, based in Lyon, France and a leading expert in anxiety. He teaches psychotherapy at Lyon University as well having his own therapy practice. He is also the author of a number of psychotherapy bestsellers published in France.

Co-author Catherine Meyer has been an editor and writer in the field of psychology for nearly 30 years. She heads up the psychology department at the publishing house Les Arenes, and lives in Paris.

Illustrator Pauline Aubry, began her career as a graphic designer, but became passionate about the art of storytelling through graphic novels, which propelled her into a career as an illustrator. She is now the author and artist of several graphic novels, published in France.

The Last Queen

■ BY JEAN-MARC ROCHETTE
■ TRANSLATED BY EDWARD GAUVIN

An epic, emotional tale, The Last Queen follows Édouard Roux, a veteran of World War I whose face is left disfigured from fighting in the trenches. Édouard takes refuge in the studio of animal sculptor Jeanne Sauvage, who gives him a new face in the form of a prosthetic mask. The pair embark on an intense romantic relationship. She introduces him to the artistic community of Montmartre, Paris, and Édouard shows her the majestic mountains of his homeland, the Vercors Massif. He tells her the story of the last queen to live in the region, a bear he saw killed as a child. In the heart of the Cirque d'Archiane valley, he reveals to Jeanne an amazing piece of art, seen by few others, which inspires her to create the masterpiece that will make her famous...

Jean-Marc Rochette is a French author, painter, and illustrator. He is one half of the creative team behind the best-selling Snowpiercer, which was adapted into a film and TV series. His graphic novel Altitude (SelfMadeHero, 2020) was nominated for an Eisner, and has won various international awards in translation. Rochette spends his time painting, drawing, writing, and climbing. With The Last Queen he celebrates subjects that are dear to him: the mountains, and the balance between man and nature.

Snowpiercer co-creator Jean-Marc Rochette tells the story of a bear who inspires a French sculptor's greatest work

Ruins

■ BY PETER KUPER

A story of love, adventure and politics – and two lives changed forever by Mexico and the monarch butterfly

“The bright, incident-packed panels of Oaxacan life are nicely balanced by lovely sketches of insects and the sparer rendering of the butterfly’s journey, its fragile orange wings warm against blue-grey landscapes.”

— The Guardian

Samantha and George are about to launch into a sabbatical year in the quaint Mexican town of Oaxaca. For Samantha, their journey to this historic town is about fulfilling a life-long dream; for George, it is an unsettling step into the unknown. As the couple embark on their adventure, a monarch butterfly begins its arduous migration south from the United States to Mexico... It is a challenging journey – a flight that requires remarkable endurance and a will to survive.

Beneath Oaxaca’s picturesque and serene veneer – the 16th-century architecture, the nearby ruins – it is a town shaken to the core by political unrest. As the monarch butterfly makes its challenging journey south, political events threaten to change the town forever. What’s more, personal events look like altering the paths of Samantha and George for good.

Ruins masterfully captures the shadows and light of a troubled country steeped in history and culture, weaving together personal, political and natural dramas into a thrilling portrait of life south of the Rio Grand.

Peter Kuper’s work appears regularly in The New Yorker, The Nation, and Mad, where he wrote and illustrated “Spy vs. Spy” for 26 years. Sophie's World

A GRAPHIC NOVEL ABOUT THE HISTORY OF PHILOSOPHY

- ADAPTED BY VINCENT ZABUS
- ART BY NICOPY
- BASED ON THE BOOK BY JOSTEIN GAARDER
- TRANSLATED BY EDWARD GAUVIN

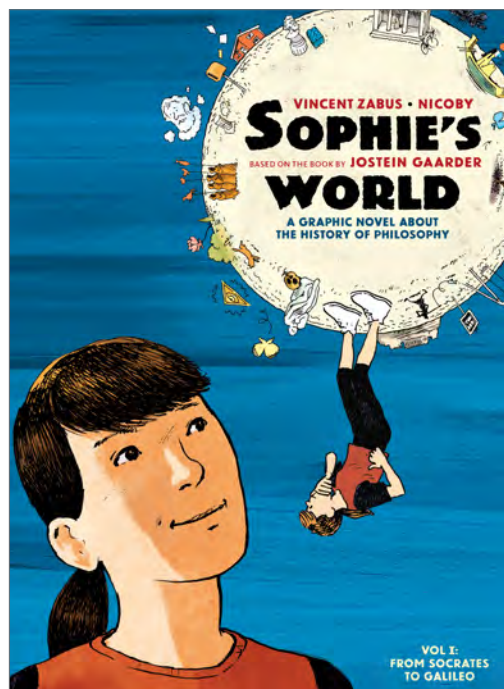

In this witty comics adaptation, ZABUS and NICOPY reinvent JOSTEIN GAARDER's novel of ideas – a beloved bestseller that has already won the hearts of over 50 million readers around the world – to bring Sophie's charming quest for meaning to a whole new medium and a new generation.

The worldwide philosophy bestseller reimagined as a two-volume graphic novel

Jostein Gaarder was born in Oslo, Norway, in 1952. After teaching philosophy and the history of ideas in Bergen, he devoted himself to writing. His worldwide bestseller Sophie's World: A Novel About the History of Philosophy (published first in Norway in 1991) was hailed as a masterpiece by critics and readers alike. He put a significant portion of his rights earnings towards establishing a foundation for sustainable environmental development. Playwright and comics writer Vincent Zabus lives in Namur, Belgium. He became well-known while penning children's series for the long-running and beloved Spirou magazine. He went on to create the prizewinning tales Les Ombres and Incredyable!, which debuted as plays and then became graphic novels in collaboration with the artist Hippolyte. His adaptation of Sophie's World combines his passions for storytelling and philosophy. A product of the mid-1970s, artist Nicoby has published over 40 works in a variety of genres, styles and formats, ranging from memoir to humour to adventure to reportage to observations of social foibles, both in book form and in periodicals such as La Revue Dessinée and Spirou, to which he is a regular contributor. He lives in the Breton countryside near Rennes, far from car exhaust and electric scooters.

VOL I: FROM SOCRATES TO GALILEO

One day, Sophie receives a cryptic letter posing an intriguing question: "Who are you?" A second message soon follows: "Where does the world come from?" It is the beginning of an unusual correspondence between our curious young heroine and her mysterious penpal. As the questions begin to pile up, Sophie is propelled headlong into a startling adventure through the history of Western philosophy. Her search for answers will see her explore each of the major schools of thought as she tries to uncover the true nature of the letters, her secretive teacher... and, above all, herself!

"...its endlessly inventive artwork and increasingly meta approach are an unexpected treat. In encouraging readers to find their own philosophical voice, this slyly subversive history book reveals it's actually far more interested in the future than the past and is far more entertaining for it."

VOL II: FROM DESCARTES TO THE PRESENT DAY

Sophie’s come a long way since the day she received that cryptic letter with its intriguing question: “Who are you?”. The mysterious correspondence sweeps our curious young heroine off on a tour of Western philosophy from its ancient foundations through the Renaissance. But it also prompts more personal reflection: What is my place in the world, my purpose in life? And just who is that girl, a stranger and yet so familiar, I glimpse in the mirror? In this second volume, Sophie’s quest for answers will see her explore major schools of modern thought from Descartes and Locke to Freud and Marx. She and her quizzical philosophy teacher Alberto, now unmasked, struggle with the possibility that they are characters in a book. Our intrepid heroine remains as forthright and openhearted as ever.

Middle Distance

A GRAPHIC MEMOIR

- BY MYLO CHOY
- EDITED BY WOODROW PHOENIX

A charming, heartwarming, and poignant story of running and self-acceptance, Mylo Choy's Middle Distance combines exertion and introspection in an exploration of the physical body's connection to the human experience. An exciting graphic addition to a growing field, this sports memoir recounts Mylo's history with running, and how their love for that famously solitary sport pushed them to grow over time.

As Middle Distance grapples with themes of resilience, identity, and self-care, Mylo leads us along the middle way between motion and rest, hurt and healing, fear and joy. The result is an honest, nuanced work of subtle power that will appeal to all runners, especially those who are transgender or nonbinary.

Mylo Choy finds comfort in the spaces between things. As a mixed-race and nonbinary person, moving between worlds feels like home to them. Born and raised in Wisconsin, they also developed a strong connection to Hawai'i, where their mother was born and raised. For over 10 years, they were employed in outdoor education, living and working in many places, including Maine and Hawai'i, but mostly between New York City and the woods upstate. They currently live in the Hudson Valley, exploring planting roots in one place for a while. Mylo's work — ranging from music to graphic stories and comics — uses the inherent tensions of multimedia to bring to life the space they inhabit between worlds. Inspired by nature's ability to offer peace and perspective, their work is contemplative without being brooding, and soothing without being escapist. This is their first full-length graphic novel.

"A beautifully complex epiphany, presented with a runner's clarity."

— Hannah Berry, Comics Laureate UK (2019–2021)

"As a fellow nonbinary runner, I connected to almost every panel. Middle Distance brought me over mountains and underwater, into rejuvenating baths and sweaty track workouts, and towards finding the middle. A moving, thoughtful, and caring journey!"

— Will Betke-Brunswick, author of A Pros and Cons List for Strong Feelings

This heartfelt graphic memoir takes us through the highs, lows, twists, and turns of the author's relationship with running, down the long road towards self-acceptance

Armed With Madness

THE SURREAL LEONORA CARRINGTON

■ WORDS BY MARY M. TALBOT

■ ART BY BRYAN TALBOT

“Powerful, enraging and uplifting, this mesmerising introduction to yet another forgotten woman of achievement is a sheer delight and will definitely compel all readers to look for more.”

— Comics Review

A new perspective on the 1930s Paris art scene from a neglected artist, feminist icon, and influential Surrealist

Reluctant muse and feminist champion... society heiress and rebel refugee... the last of the Surrealists: Leonora Carrington played many roles in her long and extraordinary life. Renouncing her privileged upbringing in pre-war England for the more exciting elite of Paris's 1930s avant-garde, she comes to rub shoulders (and more) with the likes of Pablo Picasso, Man Ray, and Salvador Dalí, after embarking on a complicated love affair with Max Ernst. But the demons that have both haunted and inspired her work are gathering, and when the world goes mad with the outbreak of war and the Nazi invasion, Leonora's own hold on reality collapses into a terrifying psychotic episode of her own. Eventually fleeing war-torn Europe, she emerges into a new and richly creative life in Mexico City, establishing herself as a prodigious painter, writer, and advocate of women's rights. This new work by the acclaimed partnership of Mary M. Talbot and Bryan Talbot celebrates the life and career of a truly remarkable woman – and artist.

Mary M. Talbot is an academic turned graphic novelist. Her first graphic novel, Dotter of her Father's Eyes (with Bryan Talbot), won the 2012 Costa Biography Award. Her most recent, Rain (2019, with Bryan Talbot), is a rallying cry to protect the planet. Her previous graphic novels are Sally Heathcote, Suffragette (2014, with Kate Charlesworth and Bryan Talbot) and The Red Virgin (2016, with Bryan Talbot). Her most recent academic book is Language and Gender (3rd ed, 2019). She is currently Visiting Professor of Graphic Narrative at Lancaster University.

Multiple award-winning artist Bryan Talbot has been working in comics for over forty years. He's produced underground, fantasy and superhero stories such as Batman and (with Neil Gaiman) Sandman, and graphic novels including The Adventures of Luther Arkwright, The Tale of One Bad Rat, Alice in Sunderland, the Grandville series, as well as illustrating the books written by Mary. They are both founding patrons of The Lakes International Comic Art Festival. Bryan was awarded a Doctorate in Arts and another in Letters and is a Fellow of the Royal Society of Literature.

Thomas Girtin

THE FORGOTTEN PAINTER

■ BY OSCAR ZARATE

The untold story of J.M.W. Turner's friend and greatest rival, pioneering watercolour artist Thomas Girtin

Part historical narrative, part modern fiction, the book consists of two interlinked stories: the first focuses on the 18th-century painter Thomas Girtin and his relationship with his friend and rival J.M.W. Turner; the second tells the tale of three amateur artists in the present day, united by a shared interest in Girtin's art. Using this dual narrative to draw parallels between two eras of rapid technological advancement and socio-political turbulence, Oscar Zarate's long-awaited new graphic novel restores to modern eyes this unjustly forgotten figure, whose work has been almost entirely ignored despite his huge influence on British painting. At the time of death, aged just 27, Girtin had already established himself as a pioneer and a master: his expressionist approach was a significant turning point in the British watercolour tradition. But the brevity of his career, coupled with his chosen medium (compared to oils, watercolours were a humbler and less easily exhibited form) meant that his work came to be overshadowed by that of Turner. As Turner himself famously remarked, "If Tom had lived, I should have starved."

Oscar Zarate is an award-winning graphic novelist. His books include collaborations with Alan Moore (A Small Killing) and Alexei Sayle (Geoffrey the Tube Train and the Fat Comedian). He was the editor of It's Dark in London, and he wrote and illustrated The Park. He collaborated with Richard Appignanesi on Dr Faustus, Hysteria, Introducing Freud and Introducing Existentialism. Born in Argentina, it was over 40 years ago that Oscar decided to visit London, where he has lived and worked ever since.

BOWIE'S STARDUST YEARS

- BY REINHARD KLEIST
- TRANSLATED BY MICHAEL WAALER

"[Kleist] brings a sort of veteran confidence to this story...What results is yet another page-turner book about a rock legend who is perfectly suited for the medium."

— The Beat

How David Bowie changed the face of rock music

In 1972, the rock'n'roll messiah ZIGGY STARDUST was born. His provocative play on sexual identity and gender roles laid the foundation for David Bowie's ascent to becoming one of the most successful pop musicians of all time. Reinhard Kleist's Starman weaves the gripping tale of this outrageous character's genesis, rise, and fall, as well as of David Bowie's hapless efforts in the London music scene before Ziggy's arrival, and of the struggles he experienced with his own creation at the height of his fame. As Bowie transforms himself, ever more frenetically, into the egocentric rock star he first conceived, the extravagant lifestyle he had only ever imagined threatens to engulf him, and bring everything down before his eyes... [This publication has not been prepared, approved, authorized or licensed by the David Bowie estate or any related entity.]

Reinhard Kleist, born in 1970 in Hürth, Cologne, has worked and lived as an illustrator and comic book artist in Berlin since 1996. He made his international breakthrough in 2006 with the biographical comic book Johnny Cash: I See a Darkness, which was awarded the renowned Max and Moritz Prize and nominated for both the Eisner and Harvey Awards. With The Boxer in 2013, Kleist became the first cartoonist to receive the German Youth Literature Prize. In 2017, Kleist once again tackled one of music's great storytellers in Nick Cave: Mercy on Me, which was simultaneously released in many languages. In 2018, Kleist was honoured for his work with the Max and Moritz Prize for Best German-Language Comic Book Artist. In 2021, Kleist tackled another extraordinary boxing champion, Emile Griffith, in the comic book Knock Out!

Frida Kahlo

HER LIFE, HER WORK, HER HOME

- BY FRANCISCO DE LA MORA
- FOREWORD BY CIRCE HENESTROSA
- TRANSLATED BY LAWRENCE SCHIMEL

"It's a wonderful tribute to both her personal life and her art."
— Morning Star

Endorsed by the Frida Kahlo Museum, Mexico City, this graphic novel explores the public and private faces of iconic artist Frida Kahlo

Frida Kahlo, remembered as one of the most inspiring personalities of the 20th century, was a woman of two intertwined parts: she was both a charismatic and empowered artist exploring themes of resistance, authenticity, cruelty, and suffering, and a more private person whose wounded body caused her a lifetime of pain that underpinned the many successes and disappointments that marked her time in the world. Revealing and exploring these two Fridas, Francisco de la Mora's graphic biography – completed with the endorsement and support of the Frida Kahlo Museum in Mexico City – vividly documents the landscapes and environments that inspired her, the dreams and nightmares that drove her, and the many people she loved. It is also a joyously beautiful tribute to her life, her work, her home – and her art.

"Frida Kahlo's work has been widely celebrated as representative of Mexican national and indigenous traditions, and for depicting the female experience and form. Overcoming illness, trauma, and physical injury, her iconic life, and the enduring art she made of it, communicate indomitable strength and the constant possibility of change." — Circe Henestrosa, Educator and Fashion Curator (co-curator of 'Frida Kahlo: Appearances Can Be Deceiving' at San Francisco's de Young Museum in 2020).

Francisco de la Mora's experience as a comics creator, whether as sole author or in collaboration with illustrators from around the world, extends from single-sheet forms to full graphic novels, and from his eight-volume Brief History of Mexico to the monthly piece he has drawn for the Hackney Citizen since January 2018. His most recent graphic novel with long-term collaborator José Luis Pescador is a biography of Diego Rivera, published by SelfMadeHero.

The Comical Eye's British Monarchy

FROM ALFRED THE GREAT TO CHARLES III

- DEVISED AND WRITTEN BY: TERESA ROBERTSON AND LEO SCHULZ
- DESIGNED AND DRAWN BY: TERESA ROBERTSON

The story of the British Royal Family over a thousand years, the reigns of every monarch sketched in a sharp, funny, and useful vignette of words and pictures – with a full Family Tree on the back.

Which kings couldn't speak English, or stammered when they could? Who were "Softsword" and "Sailor Bill"? Which king had 10 children with his mistress but none with his queen? Which kings were crowned twice? Which queen reigned for only 9 days? Which king disappeared? Here is a comic strip with a difference, an alternative (and funnier) Bayeux Tapestry tracing every king and queen from Alfred the Great to Charles III – each of their vivid pen-and-ink-portraits encapsulating the personal quirks and dramatic social change of their reigns. This single-sheet poster-sized booklet unfolds the politics, passions, and pageantry of the English and later British Royal Family, from 871 to 2023: the tyrants, eccentrics, warriors, and murderers, as well as the saints, scholars, patrons, and philosophers, whose joint story this is. Or, rather, their joined-up history, as the graphic artwork on the back illustrates, showing the complete Family Tree of the families and dynasties of our island story.

Teresa Robertson is a professional illustrator whose clients have included the British Council. Her ability to capture likeness in people has been honed in the London district of Highbury, where she is known for her portraits of families in their homes. She was a finalist in the John Ruskin Prize in 2015 and exhibited in 'The Inking Woman', at the Cartoon Museum in London, in 2017. She has an MA from Cambridge in children's book illustration.

Leo Schulz originally studied history at Auckland University. He started his career as a journalist, eventually working at the Economist Intelligence Unit in London. He later moved to financial services and it was while working in the City of London that he developed an interest first in architecture, and then in historical personalities, not least in Britain's many eccentric kings and queens.

Irmina

■ BY BARBARA YELIN

■ TRANSLATED BY MICHAEL WAALER

An award-winning graphic novel about young love, the search for integrity, and the cruelty of war

“Irmina is a provocative and often upsetting book, but it’s one that mixes craft and purpose to powerful effect and deserves to be read widely.”

— Broken Frontier

“A comic of substance, real feeling and expression.”

— Paul Gravett, Comics Historian

Studying in London, Irmina meets Howard, one of Oxford University’s first Black students. They fall in love, but as events in Germany escalate, Irmina’s circumstances change and she is forced to return to Berlin. At first she continues to write to Howard, but his silence leaves her with little choice but to adapt to life in Nazi Germany. Forty years later, Irmina’s past catches up with her – and she is given a vision of a life that might have been. Irmina is a moving and perceptive drama about the tension between integrity and social advancement, reflecting on the complicity that results from choice, conscious or otherwise, to look away. It raises poignant questions about human attitudes towards suffering and our response to violence. Barbara Yelin weaves her family history into a broader narrative of Germany’s past and in doing so attempts to understand how one was shaped by the other. While keeping the emotional intensity of human relationships at the heart of the story, Yelin creates an atmospheric sense of place with her detailed depictions of London, Oxford, Berlin and Barbados.

Barbara Yelin was born in 1977 in Munich and studied illustration at the Hamburg University of Applied Sciences. She first came to prominence as a graphic artist in France, before gaining recognition in Germany for her book Gift (with a script by Peer Meter), published in 2010. Yelin has worked as a comics artist for newspapers and international anthologies, but her work largely focuses on research-based, historical, and biographical graphic novels, mainly about women. Supported by Goethe-Institute Israel, Yelin commemorated the life of the Israeli actress Channa Maron, published in 2016 under the title Vor allem eins: Dir selbst sei treu (This Above All: To Thine Own Self Be True). In 2017, in collaboration with author Thomas von Steinaecker, she drew The Summer of Her Life, a poetic graphic novel about Gerda, the resident of a retirement home. Her most recent work is a graphic narrative created in dialogue with Holocaust survivor Emmie Arbel. It was published in 2022 in the acclaimed anthology But I Live: Three Stories of Child Survivors of the Holocaust. In 2016, Yelin was declared ‘Best German-language Comics Artist’ at the International Comic-Salon, Erlangen, and was nominated for an Eisner Award for Irmina in the following year. She lives and works in Munich.

No Surrender

■ WORDS BY SOPHIE RICKARD

■ ART BY SCARLETT RICKARD

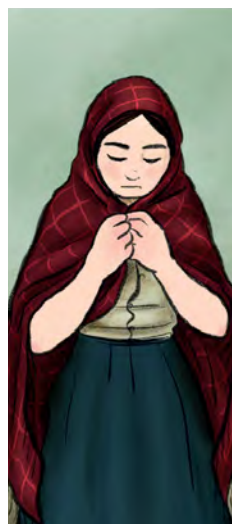

Adapted from Constance Maud's 1911 suffrage novel about women's rights

Constance Maud was at the heart of the British campaign for women's votes. Her novel No Surrender was published at the height of that struggle and used as a persuasive tool by suffragists. Hailed by Emily Wilding-Davison as "a book which breathes the very spirit of our Women's Movement", the fast-paced story interweaves the lives of women from all classes working together to bring about change. Our hero Jenny is a small but fierce Lancashire textile mill worker who puts principle before everything. No Surrender is sometimes funny, sometimes violent, but always exciting and authentic. It is highly regarded as an important document of the arguments for and against extending votes to women, for its witty storytelling and for an unflinching depiction of the rapid escalation of violence encountered by the women involved. In this faithful graphic adaptation, creators Scarlett and Sophie Rickard craft a compelling fiction that paints a comprehensive picture of social, political, economic and cultural life in early 20th-century Britain that is still acutely relevant today. The graphic format is the embodiment of the suffrage rally-cry of "Deeds not Words" and this book is the perfect sister-volume to their stunning adaptation of the socialist classic The Ragged Trousered Philanthropists.

Scarlett and Sophie Rickard are UK-based graphic novelists from the Ribble Valley in Lancashire. Scarlett is an illustrator and graphic artist now living in Kent, while Sophie is a writer living in Cheshire. This is their third graphic novel.

The Philosopher, the Dog and the Wedding

■ BY BARBARA STOK

■ TRANSLATED BY MICHELE HUTCHISON

The life and times of Hipparchia, one of the first female philosophers

PRAISE FOR BARBARA STOK'S PREVIOUS BOOK, VINCENT:

"Stok does a brilliant, sympathetic job of picturing the artist, whether jagged amid the wheat fields and sunflowers of Arles, the landscape at once gentle and alien, the man propelled by a desperate, radical passion."

— The Guardian

It is the 4th century BC in Greece. Hipparchia is about to marry the rich son of a family friend when she meets Crates. As the wedding day approaches, Hipparchia becomes increasingly captivated by the views and way of life of this strange philosopher who lives on the streets. Gradually she starts to realize that the safe, comfortable, and cushioned life of luxury that has been mapped out for her is actually one of emptiness, and spiritual imprisonment. Crates and Hipparchia came to develop a central strand of the so-called "Cynical" movement in Athenian philosophy – so-named for the dog-like tenacity or canine fury of their rejection of all conventional values. One of their fundamental principles was that we can only attain true happiness if we are independent of material possessions and social position. Hipparchia was a strong woman who had the courage to live by her own ideals, despite all the prevailing prejudices of her time. Her story continues to speak to ours.

Barbara Stok is an award-winning comic artist from The Netherlands. She briefly studied at the Fotoacademie school of photography in The Hague and worked as a journalist before becoming a cartoonist and illustrator. Her early work was autobiographical in nature, constantly questioning the meaning of life and right and wrong, always with a light touch. She has spent the last few years studying the classical philosophers and taking philosophy classes at university. Her critically acclaimed graphic novel Vincent (SelfMadeHero, 2012), about the life of Vincent van Gogh, has been published in more than 20 countries. Stok's fascination with philosophy led her to write The Philosopher, the Dog and the Wedding, the result of five years of research.

Alice Guy

FIRST LADY OF FILM

- WORDS BY JOSÉ-LOUIS BOCQUET
- ART BY CATEL MULLER
- TRANSLATED BY EDWARD GAUVIN

The inspiring story of Alice Guy, the first female movie director in cinema history

In 1895, the Lumière brothers invented the cinematograph. Less than a year later, 23-year-old Alice Guy, the first female filmmaker in cinema history, made The Cabbage Fairy, a 60-second movie, for Léon Gaumont, going on to direct over 300 films before 1922. Her life is a shadow history of early cinema, the chronicle of an art form coming into its own. A free and independent woman, rubbing shoulders with luminaries such as Georges Méliès and the Lumières, she was the first to define the professions of screenwriter and producer. She directed the first feminist satire, then the first sword-and-sandal epic, before crossing the Atlantic in 1907 to become the first woman to found her own production company in New Jersey. Alice Guy died in 1969, excluded from the annals of film history. In 2011, Martin Scorsese honoured this cinematic visionary, “forgotten by the industry she had helped create”, describing her as “a filmmaker of rare sensitivity, with a remarkable poetic eye and an extraordinary feel for locations”. The same can be said of Catel & Bocquet’s luminous account of her life.

Catel Muller, a graduate of Strasbourg’s distinguished College of Art, specializes in graphic novels that portray remarkable women. Her account of the life of the writer and feminist pioneer Benoite Groult (2013) received the Artemisia prize for a graphic narrative by a female artist. Since then, her “bio-graphical” depictions of history’s forgotten women – Kiki de Montparnasse, Olympe de Gouges, and Josephine Baker – have been published and translated around the world. Awarded the prestigious Prix Diagonale Jury Prize in 2018 for her sustained achievement, Catel has established herself as one of the finest graphic novelists of our time. José-Louis Bocquet has published eight crime novels, and is also the biographer of Asterix author Rene Goscinny, film director Henri-Georges Clouzot, and Belgian comics artist Andre Franquin. His work as a screenwriter has involved collaborations with film directors Georges Lautner, Pierre Jolivet, and Patrick Grandperret, and the artist Herve Di Rosa. The graphic novels to which he has also contributed include work by Serge Clerc, Steve Cuzor, Stanislas, and Philippe Berthet. Between 2006 and 2020, he ran the Aire Libre imprint for the French publishing house Dupuis.

Georgia O'Keeffe

■ BY MARÍA HERREROS

■ TRANSLATED BY LAWRENCE SCHIMEL

A graphic biography of Georgia O'Keeffe, one of the most significant modern artists of the 20th century

Georgia O'Keeffe (1887–1986), the American artist known for her paintings of enlarged flowers, New York skyscrapers, and New Mexico landscapes, was one of the most significant artists of the 20th century. During her lifetime, which spanned almost a century, she became widely recognised for her huge contribution to modern art. Drawing mainly from O'Keeffe's letters that are depicted in this biography, artist María Herreros delves into O'Keeffe's deepest self: a tireless traveller, a nature lover, a strong and emancipated woman who carved her own determined path through life and did it her way.

María Herreros has a degree in Fine Arts from the University of Valencia. She is an illustrator, muralist and comic book creator. Involved in artistic and social projects all over the world, her work focuses on gender equality and social justice. She has collaborated with brands such as Coca-Cola and Reebok, and has exhibited her works in galleries in Barcelona, Madrid, Los Angeles, New York, Berlin, Hong Kong, and Seoul. Her most recent collaboration on an illustrated book was Viva la Dolce Vita, with Máximo Huerta (Lunberg, 2019). She currently lives in Madrid.

IT'S IRONIC THAT DIEGO HAD TO COME TO THE U.S. TO PAINT HIS BEST MURAL. WHAT DOES THIS COCHINO COUNTRY HAVE THAT ATTRACTS THE MOST BRILLIANT MINDS, LUCIENNE?

DIEGO WANTED TO PAINT THIS MURAL IN RUSSIA. THAT WOULD HAVE BEEN HIS DREAM. BUT THEY SLAMMED THE DOOR IN HIS FACE.

"OVER THERE, HE WAS TRAPPED BY THE UNBEARABLE BUREAUCRACY, THE LACK OF CLARITY, THE OPACITY IN HOW EVERYTHING HAPPENED... BUT ABOVE ALL, DIEGO WAS TERRIBLY FRUSTRATED BECAUSE HE COULDN'T PAINT."

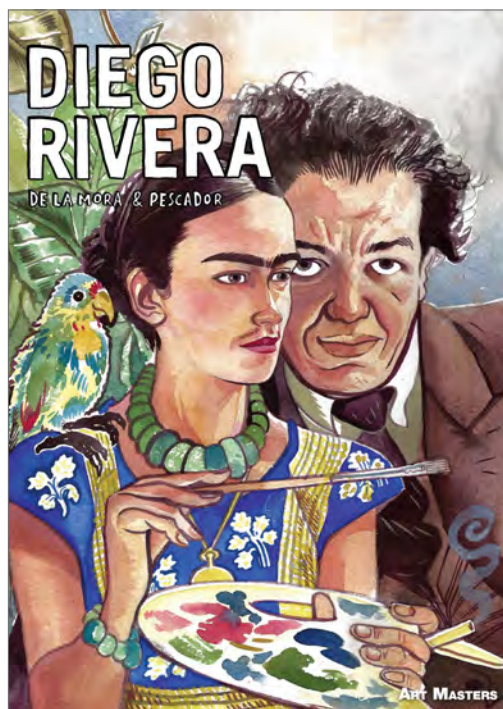

"I KNOW ALL THIS BECAUSE WE MARRIED SOON AFTER..."

"MANY PEOPLE ENVIED DIEGO, AND THEY DROVE HIM TO LEAVE MEXICO ONCE MORE. FIRST, HE WAS UNJUSTLY KICKED OUT OF THE COMMUNIST PARTY BECAUSE OF THAT MISERABLE HACK FREEMAN. THEN, PERHAPS WHAT HURT HIM MOST AT THAT TIME, THEY TOOK AWAY FROM HIM THE WALL OF THE NATIONAL PALACE, WHICH HE HASN'T YET BEEN ABLE TO COMPLETE."

Diego Rivera

■ WORDS BY FRANCISCO DE LA MORA

■ ART BY JOSÉ LUIS PESCADOR

Explores the passions and contradictions – both human and political – that turned the prolific and brilliant painter, Diego Rivera, into an increasingly universal cultural figure

Diego Rivera was a revolutionary painter in more ways than one. Attending art school at eleven, by his twenties he counted among the most influential figures of the Parisian art scene of the early 20th century, including Picasso, Modigliani, Braque and Gris. Rivera's murals, both in his native Mexico and the USA, reflect the contradictory turbulence of his character and times. He met Lenin in Paris, Stalin in Moscow, and offered refuge to Trotsky during his Mexican exile. Meanwhile his work was commissioned by those giants of capitalism, Henry Ford and John D. Rockefeller. Rivera's indefatigable industry was matched by his zest for life, accumulating hundreds of lovers and four wives – including Frida Kahlo, whose formidable partnership is also one of the great love-stories of art history. This beautifully realized graphic novel tells the story of the extraordinary life and times of an artist in whom myth and reality fused.

Francisco de la Mora's experience as a comics creator, whether as sole author or in collaboration with illustrators from around the world, extends from single-sheet forms to full graphic novels, and from his eight-volume Brief History of Mexico to the monthly piece he has drawn for the Hackney Citizen since January 2018. José Luis Pescador is a comics artist and painter, a long-term collaborator with Francisco de la Mora, and the creator of Marambo Comix – a comics character, magazine, and festival rolled into one. He lives and works in Leon, Guanajuato, where he runs an art gallery.

■ CATALYST: A COLLECTION OF 11 SHORT STORIES BY ASIA ALFASI, CHARLOTTE BAILEY, JASON CHUANG, DOMINIQUE DUONG, CATHERINE ANYANGO GRÜNEWALD, SHUNING JI, SONIA LEONG, PRIS LEMONS, CALICO N.M., TYRELL OSBORNE, WOODROW PHOENIX

Charlotte Bailey is a Birmingham-based cartoonist, whose work explores Black British heritage and potential futures. She has published, edited and collaborated on a range of zines and journals, and wrote episode two of the sci-fi webcomic Planet DIVOC-9. An associate of the international graphic novel forum LDComics, she has hosted workshops with AfroFutures UK. Her work has been widely exhibited, including at the Angoulême Comics Festival and London's Cartoon Museum, and was published in the celebrated anthology The Inking Woman.

Dominique Duong is an illustrator and comics artist living and working in London. Her work has been published by Imagine FX, The Covent Gardener,

The Psychologist and AppBox Media, and she was one of Broken Frontier's "Six Small Press Creators to Watch" in 2020. Fascinated by the macabre, the surreal and the magical, and influenced by mythology, fairy tales, nature and folklore, Dominique creates diverse, queer fantasy and horror stories. She also runs art workshops on bookbinding, drawing and inking.

Born in Taiwan, Jason Chuang moved to the UK at 15, pursued an illustration degree at Falmouth University and subsequently completed an MA in Visual Communication at the RCA. He is interested in the exploration of human emotions via symbolic imagery coated with elements of the absurd and the poetic. Passionate about narrative, Jason often ponders impossible situations within alternative universes, constantly searching for new ways to tell stories in which the unreal comes closer to the truth.

Shuning Ji studied illustration as a postgraduate at The University of Edinburgh. She is a comicbook artist and character designer, and is currently working on a comic about Chinese slang, which will be published in July 2021. Born in China, Shuning now lives and works in Edinburgh.

Pris Lemons a queer comics artist from the Cayman Islands, who now lives in Scotland. Their work is autobiographical, focusing on gender and sexuality through character design. Colour, symbolism and humour are key elements of their work, which explores sensitivity and vulnerability via difficult narratives drawn from their own queer experience. Inspired by film, animation and real life, Pris highlights the feeling of living between worlds, rendering the internal contradictions in their culture and upbringing both tangible and beautiful.

Asia Alfasi is an award-winning British Libyan graphic novelist. Born in Libya in 1984, she spent her formative years first in Tripoli, and then in Glasgow, Scotland, after migrating there with her family. Upon discovering and falling in love with comics and manga, she realised their immense potential for humanising issues and bringing the plight of often marginalised peoples to the fore and therefore furthering understanding. Ever since, she has represented the Muslim and Arab voice through her work with the ultimate aim of harnessing the medium as a tool for cross-cultural dialogue.

Calico N.M. is a comics artist, illustrator and animator, and is currently studying at Kingston University London. Born in Egypt and now living in the UK, they have created a number of small, self-published zines and webcomics, as well as being featured in community-based illustration anthologies under the pen name Neomints.

Since graduating with a BA in Illustration from Middlesex University in 2020, Tyrell Osborne has continued to add to his skill sets, both digital and traditional, incorporating pen and ink, printmaking, life drawing and visual storytelling. He is interested in exploring both personal and commercial projects, and has previously created protest posters for recent political and global events, a graphic novel, an illustrated biography, film posters, intimate family portraits and a panoramic narrative. Tyrell lives and works in London.

Catherine Anyango Grünewald, a published graphic novelist and teacher, taught at the RCA in London for 10 years and is now a Senior Lecturer in Illustration at Konstfack University of Arts, Crafts and Design in Stockholm. She illustrated a graphic novel adaptation of Conrad's Heart of Darkness for SelfMadeHero in 2010, and in 2019 was awarded the prestigious Navigator Art on Paper Prize. In 2021, Phaidon's Vitamin D3 included her among the 100 best practitioners of contemporary drawing.

Woodrow Phoenix is a writer, artist and graphic designer based in London and Cambridge. His work has appeared in national UK newspapers, in magazines and comics collections internationally and in television projects for Walt Disney and Cartoon Network. His books include the critically acclaimed Rumble Strip and Crash Course, the award-winning anthology Nelson and the experimental She Lives, a gallery installation that is also a graphic novel. Woodrow is a Visiting Lecturer in Graphic Novels at Middlesex University.

Sonia Leong is a comics/manga illustrator and author of many drawing guides, including Draw Manga: Complete Skills (Search Press). Her debut graphic novel was the Manga Shakespeare Romeo and Juliet (SelfMadeHero), and her most recent book was Great Lives: Marie Curie (B.E.S. Publishing). She also illustrates for children's books, fashion, advertising, film and television. She is the Director of Sweatdrop Studios, an independent comic publisher based in the United Kingdom.

Sajan Rai is a self-employed artist who produces increasingly weird pictures and comics, as well as world-building through non-linear illustrated poetry. He likes using the latter to experiment artistically, as well as attempting to create work disparate from the abundant homogeneity of eurocentrism in art. His comics, however, are largely centred around being absurdist slapstick. When not drawing, Sajan enjoys reading, making and listening to music and is currently watching '90s Canadian vampire show Forever Knight for free on Youtube.

Strays

■ BY CHRIS W. KIM

An enigmatic parable of the modern city, where strangers can become friends, and vice versa

“I really enjoyed Strays, a great meditation on loneliness, isolation and grief. Wonderful cartooning.”

— Jeff Lemire

A young man flees a disaster at home, and comes to live in the city with his sister, making ends meet by taking a job as a deliveryman – only to encounter a flood of old friends and past acquaintances on his daily route... At first elated by the company of these waifs and strays, their own desperation for work begins to trouble his conscience – but what happens when you can't deliver help to everyone? Chris W. Kim's distinctively detailed graphic style embodies an elusively disquieting parable of modern isolation, and of the ties that bind – or fail to bind – society together.

Chris W. Kim is a comics artist and illustrator. A graduate of OCAD University in Toronto, his clients include the New York Times and the Hollywood Reporter. Herman by Trade (SelfMadeHero, 2017) was his first graphic novel. Strays is his second.

THE BOXER
978-1-906838-77-5

The American boxing champion Emile Griffith gained notoriety in 1962 when he brutally defeated the Cuban fighter Benny Paret. Ten days after the fight, Paret, who had directed a homophobic slur at Griffith during the weigh-in, died from his injuries. In Knock Out!, Reinhard Kleist draws a powerful, emotive portrait of a bisexual Black athlete who, facing racism and homophobia in 1960s America, found success in the world of boxing. This is the story of a fierce and ambitious fighter, and of a knock-out blow that ended one life and changed a second forever.

Reinhard Kleist lives and works as a freelance comics artist and illustrator in Berlin. His graphic novel Johnny Cash: I See A Darkness was nominated for the Eisner and Harvey Awards and received the Max und Moritz Prize for Best German-language Comic. With The Boxer, Kleist became the first cartoonist to receive the German Youth Literature Prize.

And I see revealed the wretched woman's tormentors.

The Dancing Plague

■ BY GARETH BROOKES

From “choreomania” to coronavirus: an utterly original graphic novel about a newly urgent subject.

“Visually stunning...
With fire and needle,
Brookes crafts a book
the likes of which we’ve never seen before.”
— The New York Times

The Dancing Plague tells a true story, from 1518, when hundreds of inhabitants of Strasbourg were suddenly seized by the strange and unstoppable compulsion to dance, from the imagined perspective of Mary, one of its witnesses. Prone to mystic visions as a child, betrayed in the convent to which she flees, then abused by her loutish husband, Mary endures her life as an oppressed and ultimately scapegoated woman with courage, strength, and inspiring beauty. As difficult to interpret now (as a psychological reaction to social injustice?) as it was then (as a collective demonic possession?), the story of the “Dancing Plague” finds suitably extraordinary expression in the utterly unique mixed-media style Gareth Brookes has devised to tell it. The pioneering blend of his trademark “pyrographic” technique with sumptuously colourful (and literal) embroidery perfectly reflects, in a beautiful work of art, the enduring fragility of our human condition – from “choreomania” to coronavirus.

Gareth Brookes studied printmaking at the Royal College of Art. His graphic novels include A Thousand Coloured Castles (2017) and The Black Project, which was nominated for an award at the Angoulême International Comics Festival, 2018. His work has appeared in ArtReview, been published by Kuš, and was included in the “Comics Unmasked” exhibition at the British Library in 2014.

SELLING POINTS

- A unique and constantly innovative style: part Bayeux Tapestry, part bande dessinée
- Hot on the heels of Medicine: A Graphic History, this is an imaginative and moving account of the true story of a strange medieval epidemic that speaks to the anxieties and uncertainties of modern times.
- Touches on many relevant themes such as inequality, misogyny, anti-Semitism, mental health, the nature of protest and even rave culture.

Buñuel

IN THE LABYRINTH OF THE TURTLES

- BY FERMÍN SOLÍS
- TRANSLATED BY LAWRENCE SCHIMEL

A fascinating portrait of a pivotal period in the life of Spanish filmmaker Luis Buñuel

“Age is something that doesn’t matter, unless you are a cheese.”
– Luis Buñuel

Buñuel: In the Labyrinth of the Turtles depicts a decisive moment in the life of the great Spanish filmmaker Luis Buñuel: the moment when he doubted surrealism and contemplated embracing a more social type of cinema. At this crucial turning point in his career, he wanted to change the world by showing the hidden heart of reality. Buñuel was deeply affected by the harshness of Las Hurdes and the extreme misery of the people who lived in this remote region, so with his friend, the movie producer Ramón Acín, he began work on the pseudo-documentary Land Without Bread. But in the mind of the great surrealist, reality inevitably clashed with dreams and childhood memories, threatening both the film and his friendship with Acín. It was at this moment that the Buñuel of the future was born.

Fermín Solís is a renowned Spanish cartoonist, animator and illustrator, who alternates between working as a comic book artist, a textbook illustrator and a children’s book creator. His books have been published by leading independent publishers in the United States, Canada and France, and he has been nominated for the Comic de Barcelona, INJUVE and the National Comic Award.

I Feel Love

■ SHORT STORIES BY KRENT ABLE, ANYA DAVIDSON, JULIAN HANSHAW, BENJAMIN MARRA, CAT SIMS, KELSEY WROTEN

Six stories that explore the dark and twisted underbelly of love

"I Feel Love is by turns hilarious, disquieting, sexy, icky and all sorts of messed-up, in the best way."

– Paul Tremblay
author of A Head Full Of Ghosts
and Survivor Song

Love makes the world go round. It can also turn your heart as black as coal. In a series of short fictions, Krent Able, Anya Davidson, Julian Hanshaw, Benjamin Marra, Cat Sims and Kelsey Wroten explore love's dark, twisted underbelly, and offer a much-needed antidote to everything that is sweet, cloying and conventional. Through wife-swapping, slash fiction, medieval aliens, childbirth, swamp monsters and a mysterious black balloon, I Feel Love questions the one emotion that is meant to make us feel good—but that often does the exact opposite. As unflinching as it is honest, this is the kind of book you don't take home to meet your parents.

LA Times/British Comic Award nominee and winner of the Jonathan Cape/Observer/Comica prize, Julian Hanshaw is the graphic novelist behind the acclaimed Tim Ginger, The Art of Pho and Cloud Hotel. Krent Able is an illustrator best known for his work in the Guardian, NME and Vice, and on the short horror film Deep Clean. Together they created the anthology I Feel Machine.

ZÁTOPEK

“WHEN YOU CAN’T KEEP GOING, GO FASTER!”

■ WORDS BY JAN NOVÁK

■ ART BY JAROMÍR 99

An intoxicating, visually intense portrait of legendary runner
Emil Zátopek

Emil Zátopek is arguably the greatest Olympic champion of all time. The Czech runner's three gold medals at the 1952 Helsinki Summer Olympics (5,000m, 10,000m and marathon) have never been matched. His success as a runner made him a national hero, but as a public figure, outspoken and unafraid to take a stand, he was equally impressive. Even before the Helsinki Games, Zátopek had scored a remarkable victory, successfully pressuring the Communist regime to allow his colleague Stanislav Jungwirth, a political outcast, to compete. In Zátopek, Jan Novák and Jaromír 99 trace the extraordinary life and times of the great Olympian, from his first meeting with Dana, the love of his life, to the victories that would ensure his lasting legacy.

Jan Novák is a Czech writer and documentary maker. He was awarded two Carl Sandburg prizes for the Best Book of the Year by the Chicago Public Library and the Magnesia Litera for the Czech Book of the Year. He co-authored The Turnaround (1994), Miloš Forman's autobiography, and in 2020 published a controversial biography about Milan Kundera. Jaromír 99 is a Czech singer, songwriter, and artist who is best known for his work with Jaroslav Rudis on the comics trilogy Alois Nebel. He is also the author (with David Zane Mairowitz) of The Castle, an adaptation of Kafka's novel (SelfMadeHero, 2013).

A brave coming-out story of 40-something Louise, who comes to realize in later life that she simply prefers women

Forty-something Louise is married to Peter, with whom she has four children. They live in a big house, and on paper everything looks fantastic. But Louise has a secret that she barely dares to admit to herself: a burning desire for women. When I Came Out is the story of a woman who has met society's expectations throughout her life but finally realizes that she has not been true to herself.

From first-time creator Anne Mette Kærulf Lorentzen, this bold and elaborate piece of autobiographical work addresses personal anxieties about coming out later in life and documents her jump from a safe, well-established, heteronormative, middle-class life to living openly as a lesbian. With beautiful drawings using anthropomorphic characters, Anne Mette Kærulf Lorentzen tells her coming-out story with charming sensitivity and a loving humour.

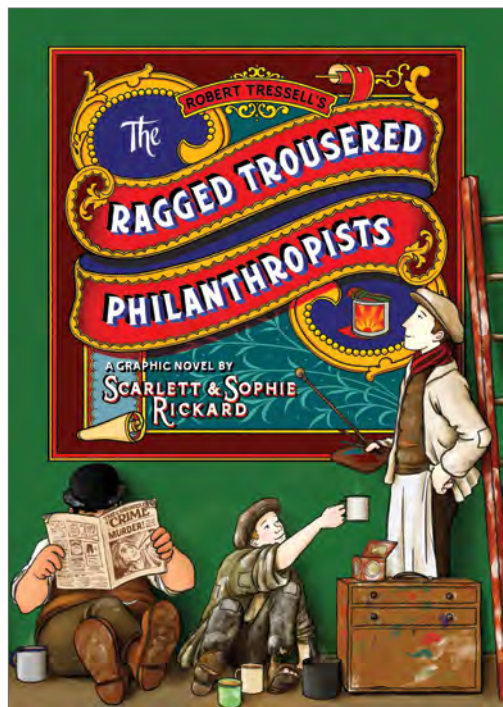

Anne Mette Kærulf Lorentzen is an architect and LGBTQ+ activist living in Denmark. She is part of the NGO Female Oxygen, which supports women in countries where LGBTQ+ rights are threatened.

The Ragged Trousered Philanthropists

■ WORDS BY SOPHIE RICKARD

■ ART BY SCARLETT RICKARD

The Ragged Trousered Philanthropists tells the story of a group of working men in the fictional town of Mugsborough, and of socialist journeyman-prophet Frank Owen, who attempts to convince his fellow workers that capitalism is the real source of the poverty all around them. Owen's spirited attacks on the greed and dishonesty of the capitalist system, and his support for a socialist society in which work is performed to satisfy the needs of all, rather than to generate profit for a few, eventually rouses his fellow men from their political passivity. Described by George Orwell as a piece of social history and a book that everyone should read, Robert Tressell's The Ragged Trousered Philanthropists is often cited as one of the most authentic novels of English working-class life ever written. In this faithful graphic adaptation, creators Scarlett and Sophie Rickard paint a comprehensive picture of social, political, economic and cultural life in early 20th century Britain that is still acutely relevant today.

Scarlett and Sophie Rickard are graphic novelists from the Ribble Valley in Lancashire. Scarlett is an illustrator and graphic artist now living in Kent, while Sophie is a writer living in Cheshire. This is their second graphic novel.

A contemplative and compelling tale about growing old and what it means to be happy

“Quietly moving”
– The Guardian
Graphic Novel of the Month

While trying to cope with the daily realities of her existence in an old people’s home, Gerda Wendt looks back on her childhood and adolescence, on her passion for astrophysics and the raised eyebrows it provoked, and on the tough choice that she had to make back in the summer of her life: the choice between love and a career abroad...

Subtle and deep, moving and funny, sad and true, Gerda’s reflections seek to answer the question that keeps us all awake in the small hours: have I lived a happy life?

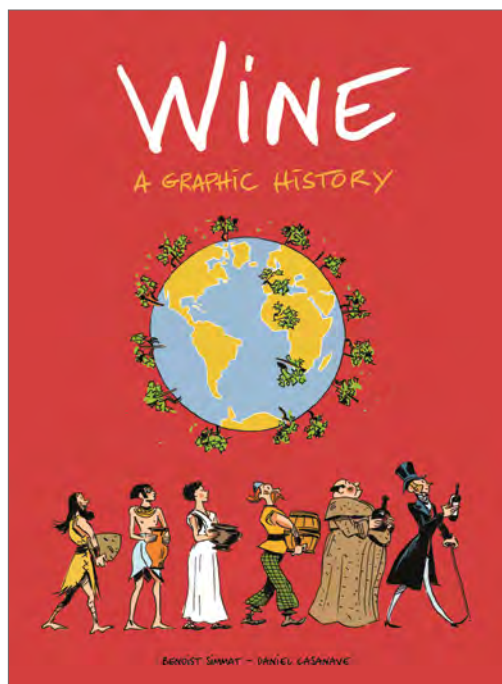

Thomas von Steinaecker is a German novelist and journalist. He has written extensively for radio and is the creator of several documentaries, including Richard Strauss and His Heroines. Two of his novels have been nominated for the German Book Prize. Barbara Yelin studied illustration at the Hamburg University of Applied Sciences. The history of wine is nothing less than the history of civilization. It is the religious drink par excellence — from the Ancient Greek god of wine, Dionysus, via the vineyard Noah planted after the Flood in the Old Testament, to Christ's miracle at Cana. In the monasteries and churches of the Middle Ages, the syrupy drink of antiquity, unpalatable if undiluted, was transformed into the wine we know and love today.

Oenophile Benoist Simmat and artist Daniel Casanave tell the story of wine from its origins in the Mediterranean to the globalized industry of the 21st century. Tracing the innovations that have accompanied this ancient art and science, from oak-barrel ageing to the invention of the bottle, Wine: A Graphic History will leave readers with a fresh and full-bodied view of our own drinking culture.

Benoist Simmat is a journalist, essayist and scriptwriter, and the author of thirty books. A wine specialist, he is a long-time contributor to La Revue du Vin de France. Daniel Casanave is a comic book artist and writer. He is the artist for Yuval Noah Harari's Sapiens: A Graphic History with co-writer David Vandermeulen. He lives in France.

An engaging, informative and endlessly surprising graphic history of medicine

“This utterly brilliant comic will feed you vital and amazing information so painlessly you’ll barely realize how much you’re learning.”

– The Guardian
Graphic Novel of the Month

In the Middle Ages, surgery was left to barbers, owing to their skill with sharp instruments. During the French Revolution, doctors were banned from hospitals. In the mid-19th century, the diverting effects of laughing gas inadvertently led to the discovery of anaesthesia. Three decades later, Louis Pasteur made a crucial breakthrough in his research into vaccination because his assistant decided to go on holiday.

In Medicine: A Graphic History, surgeon and professor of medical history Jean-Noël Fabiani stitches together the most significant and intriguing episodes from the story of medicine, from chance breakthroughs to hard-won scientific discoveries, featuring a vivid cast of history’s most dedicated and often heroic personalities. Spanning centuries and crossing continents, this fast-paced and rigorously detailed graphic novel guides us through one of the most wondrous strands of human history, covering everything from blood-letting to organ donation, plague to prosthetics, X-rays to Viagra.

Jean-Noël Fabiani is a doctor at the Georges Pompidou European Hospital in Paris, where he heads the Department of Cardiovascular Surgery. He is also a professor at the University Paris-Descartes, where he spent a decade teaching the history of medicine. Philippe Bercovici is a comic book artist from Nice, France. He has created numerous comics and graphic novels over the last 40 years.

Altitude

- WORDS BY OLIVIER BOCQUET AND JEAN-MARC ROCHETTE
- ART BY JEAN-MARC ROCHETTE
- TRANSLATED BY EDWARD GAUVIN

An exhilarating graphic novel about the thrill and terror of mountaineering

“A bittersweet celebration of youthful limit-testing.”

– The Scotsman

“Jean-Marc’s story carries serious emotional clout, while its colourful panels capture the stark geometry of cliff faces and dangling ropes”

– The Guardian
Best Graphic Novels of 2020

As a teenager, bivouacked on a mountainside beneath a sky filled with stars, Jean-Marc Rochette has already begun measuring himself against some of Europe’s highest peaks. The summits of the Massif des Écrins represent both a challenge and an escape. However, the frozen slopes can swiftly turn from a playground to a merciless test of endurance where life hangs in the balance.

In Altitude, Rochette tells the story of his formative years, both as a climber and as an artist. Part coming-of-age story, part love letter to the French Alps, this autobiographical graphic novel captures the exhilaration and terror invoked by confronting nature’s raw beauty and life’s many hurdles.

Jean-Marc Rochette is a French comic book artist and writer. Among his many credits is Snowpiercer, a graphic novel and major soon-to-be released Netflix series. Olivier Bocquet is the author of many graphic novels, and he has collaborated with artists including Julie Rocheleau, Gabriel Germain and Léonie Bischoff.

A CHINESE LIFE
978-1-906838-55-3

An intense, poignant, and informative glimpse into life in exile

“Siberian Haiku creates magic from nightmares. [...] An inspired examination of the capacity for human survival”
– The Beat

June 1941. A quiet village in Central Lithuania awakes to the arrival of the Soviet Army. Young Algiukas's family is given barely ten minutes to pack before being herded onto a crowded freight train bound for the snowy plains of Siberia. Leaving behind the fertile agricultural lands of rural village life, they are forced to adapt to living in brutal new conditions. While this life quickly becomes a battle for survival against hunger and the relentless cold, Algiukas learns to escape the daily rigours through the inventive power of his imagination, with the help of pencils, paper and a book of Japanese haiku poems.

Based on the true story of her father, writer Jurga Vilė, along with artist Lina Itagaki, offers an unforgettable tale of a childhood in exile. In the process, they shed light on one of the darkest periods of European history that, seen through a child's eyes, underlines the courage of human endurance.

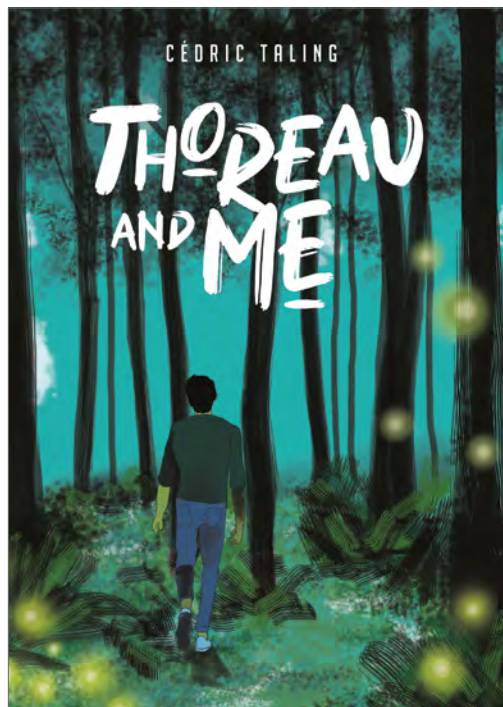

Jurga Vilė is a writer, translator and film programmer. She studied French at Vilnius University and visual arts at the Sorbonne. She currently lives in the south of Spain, where she teaches Lithuanian. Lina Itagaki studied English language and literature at the Vytautas Magnus University, where she took a particular interest in Japanese culture and language. She later studied international economics and business in Tokyo. She lives in Lithuania.

Thoreau and Me

■ BY CÉDRIC TALING

■ TRANSLATED BY EDWARD GAUVIN

Cédric, a forty-something painter, has begun to question his life choices. Surrounded by uncertainty—and worse, despair—in the face of consumerism and climate change, he discusses his plight with the spirit of Henry David Thoreau, proto-environmentalist and author of Walden; or, Life in the Woods. Although almost two centuries separate the men, their viewpoints show the striking parallels between the commercialism of the 19th century and the capitalist alienation of today. Inspired by Thoreau's return to nature, Cédric begins dreaming of his own retreat from urban life.

Timely and original, Thoreau and Me explores the causes and consequences of today's climate breakdown. Blending humour, philosophy and fiction at a time of unprecedented ecological and financial stress, Taling explores how we can learn to live with and respond to our own anxieties.

Cédric Taling is a painter and illustrator. He has worked as a screenwriter for Canal+ ID and as an animator for cinema and television. His paintings, which are inspired by comics art, blend American and Japanese graphic influences. He produced his first solo exhibition in 2007 and, in 2014, co-founded the contemporary art centre La Traverse d'Alfortville. Thoreau and Me is his debut graphic novel.

“Things do not change; we change. Sell your clothes and keep your thoughts”
– Henry David Thoreau

“A well-crafted, funny, and often beautiful piece of work.”
– The Canary

SELLING POINTS

- Blending humour, philosophy, and fiction, Thoreau and Me is a timely enquiry into the causes and consequences of the environmental crisis
- As a portrait of eco-anxiety and climate grief, this is a hopeful, intelligent, and original contribution to climate discourse
- Inspired by Henry David Thoreau's Walden, an enduring classic that, according to the New Yorker, is “a cornerstone work of American non-fiction”
