The founder of a successful lifestyle and gifting brand, author of an influential parenting blog, and mother of five children, Princess Marie-Chantal of Greece is constantly asked how she manages to do it all. So many of these queries - about proper etiquette for children in our fast-paced, technology-centered world-led her to recognize the need for a modern handbook on children's manners. First published in 2020, Manners Begin at Breakfast addresses rules of etiquette, including table manners, social media, fashion dos and don'ts, and party conversation. This edition covers a broader age range of children from infants to late-teens, it is an essential guide for all parents keen to raise polite, well-rounded children, equipped to thrive in society and develop into confident, successful adults. With new insights on parenting in a post-pandemic world, including an updated chapter on technology and how to reduce children's screentime, chapters are peppered with delightful anecdotes and stories from Marie-Chantal's experience putting her own advice into practice as her children enter early adulthood. Adorned with charming, specially commissioned illustrations by Nicholas Child who worked closely with the author to include some personalised additions including the artist's impression of Marie-Chantal's own daschund! LET'S TALK ABOUT TECHNOLOGY

"With every word we utter, with every action we take we know our kids are watching us. We as parents are their most important role models."

—MICHELLE OBAMA

Soft-boiled egg-tiquette

Although there are a number of different ways to eat a soft-boiled egg, there is one method that is considered to be correct etiquette:

4. Eat egg with teaspoon and/or most "holders" (cups of toast for dunking—great for encouraging busy parents) and scoop the runny yolk to enjoy on toast.

Table settings

Knowing how to set a table correctly isn't difficult; the utensils, if properly placed, will tell you how to use them. Always start with the forks or knives placed on the outside of the setting, and work your way in after each course. Though children don't usually need to use all of the utensils that are provided at a formal table setting, teaching them the correct approach at an early age will ensure they're not fazed by such things later on.

How does a renowned stylist approach personalizing a space? In this beautiful new book, Mieke ten Have identifies and explains the four principal elements that she always takes into account: Color Theory, Pattern Play, Wild and Tame, and Flowers for Living. She illustrates each of these principles with images of rooms that she has styled for such noted designers as Stephen Sills, Mario Buatta, Alberto Pinto, Rita König, and Victoria Hagan in a wide variety of homes and locations. Then Mieke demonstrates how she applies these concepts, season after season, in her own country home, the Barn. Rich, atmospheric images by photographer Frank Frances document the evolution of the house, capturing the distinctive light, mood, colors, tonality, and textures of each season. Both aspirational and inspirational, Interiors Styled by Mieke ten Have provides countless design ideas for beautifying our surroundings throughout the year.

To make a house a home requires an expert eye to guide every detail, large or small. In her first book, Houses for All Seasons, Gioia Bonomi's choices of colors, lighting, décor, textures, and ephemera in the six private houses featured here, located in the United States, Europe, and the Bahamas, have all been carefully curated to create fabulous spaces. Experience the beauty of Northern Europe blooming in the springtime, the summer vibrance of Long Island, the rich palette of New York in the fall, and finally, winter escapes to the snowy Swiss Alps as well as to the sunny paradise of the Bahamian islands. Bonomi's style merges a contemporary, graphic outlook among richer classical textures. The houses—and Bonomi's lush gardens in the Hamptons, designed by landscape architect Mario Nievera—have been photographed by Simon Upton, whose work is regularly featured in AD, World of Interiors, and Vogue, while a foreword by acclaimed designer Allegra Hicks sets Bonomi's work in context. Throughout, Bonomi offers decorating tips and insights into her inspiration for each house. No matter the location or season, her style is timeless and eye-catching.

Gioia Bonomi, an internationally renowned interior designer, graduated from the Inchbald School of Design in London and after a short stint working for Percy Bass, started her own company at the age of 20. The story of McMillen is the story of American interior design. From humble beginnings in a townhouse on New York City’s East 55th St. in 1924, McMillen evolved into the premier interior design firm in the country under the intrepid leadership of Eleanor Stockstrom McMillen (later Eleanor McMillen Brown). This centennial volume, written by Ann Pyne, the current president of McMillen, traces the history of the company from the early years of experimentation through the lean years of the Depression and World War II, the so-called glory years of the 1960s and 1970s, and into the modern era, beginning in the 1980s. McMillen’s clientele has always comprised a who’s who of American movers and shakers, along with renowned corporate clients, and some of its employees—Albert Hadley, Mark Hampton, Tom Buckley, and Kevin McNamara among them—went on to become the major interior designers of the late 20th century. Sumptuously illustrated with color and vintage black-and-white photographs of luxurious homes, as well as public spaces such as the Steuben Showroom and the Cosmopolitan Club, both in New York, plus exquisite period watercolors, this celebration of McMillen showcases the very best of design history.

Ann Pyne is the current president of McMillen, succeeding her mother, Betty Sherrill, who took over the presidency when Mrs. McMillen Brown retired. She has a masters degree in decorative arts from the Bard Graduate Center and an MA in English and American literature from Columbia University. She lives in New York.

In addition to the flagship farmshop in the Cotswolds, Daylesford Organic has four London stores and a growing e-commerce platform. The Daylesford estate has grown with the farm and now boasts pubs, holiday cottages, wellness spas and a members' health club, while continuing to pioneer large-scale sustainable agriculture. Here, Bamford opens the doors to never-before-seen parts of the estate, the restored cottages and their stylish interiors, and the gardens, and provides readers with decorating and entertaining ideas, themed by seasonal flowers and featuring accessible tabletop ideas. This rare view into Bamford's way of life shows why she has become a key tastemaker of her generation. With insightful text on creating a wholesome lifestyle and specially commissioned photography throughout, this is a quintessential guide to stylish English country living.

Caftans: From Classical to Camp

Cameron Silver

Join Cameron Silver, founder of LA's famous—and highly influential—vintage boutique Decades, on a romp through the history and countless manifestations of the caftan, the world's most universal garment

Embark on a whimsical journey through the timeless saga of the caftan. Arguably the world's oldest-known garment, the caftan appears in every era and culture, from the chitons depicted on urns and murals in ancient Greece and Rome to the diaphanous versions wafting down today's red carpets. They range in style from loungewear to haute couture, and Silver guides us expertly through all the manifestations: "Caftan Couture" presents creations by the likes of Yves Saint Laurent, Valentino, Marc Bohan for Dior, Karl Lagerfeld, Emilio Pucci, and Oscar de la Renta; "Caftan Stars" showcases caftans worn in films, concerts, and on the red carpet, as well as at home—think Elizabeth Taylor, Zsa Zsa Gabor, Barbara Streisand, Princess Grace of Monaco, Jacqueline Kennedy, Liza Minnelli, Nina Simone, Billy Porter, and Jennifer Lopez; "Mantans" reveals men's growing penchant for wearing caftans; "Resort" focuses on the colorful, lightweight versions worn on holiday; "Caftan Capital" highlights the iconic caftans of Morocco; and "Caftans Today" documents the current embrace of caftans as the ultimate multigenerational, size-inclusive, gender-fluid, cross-cultural, populist items in our wardrobes. Adorned with both vintage and modern photographs, Caftans flutters through the pages in a dance of glamour, camp, and comfort – an ode to a garment as multifaceted and enduring as the spirit it embodies.

The Maine House II

Maura McEvoy, Basha Burwell, and Kathleen Hackett

Photography by Maura McEvoy

The authors of the highly successful The Maine House continue their quest to record and celebrate the authentic Maine houses of their childhoods—a Maine that is in danger of vanishing Spend any amount of time in Maine—a weekend, a summer, a lifetime—and its impression lasts forever. When The Maine House was initially published, the reception was astonishing. Over multiple printings and across the world, the book sounded a rallying cry, summed up perfectly in one of dozens of reviews, that it “crafts a plea to preserve a living history belonging to individual, family, and state; a visual call to recognize these homey structures and others like them as ‘extraordinary gifts.’” The Maine House II moves beyond the authors’ cri de coeur; they’re on a mission. Through 25 homes—inshore, inland, and on islands—McEvoy, Burwell, and Hackett highlight the beauty and importance of preservation, restoration, thoughtful renovation, and low-impact living in the place they love the most. From visionaries who saw home in a decommissioned lighthouse, a former hotel, and a boat shed to families resolutely leaving generational homes largely untouched (some continuing to live off the grid) and still others honoring vernacular architecture by living with it in surprising ways, The Maine House II captures the myriad ways one can live in this singular place—in the present—while preserving the past and ensuring its future.

Veere Grenney Home: Seeking Beauty

Veere Grenney

Photography by Francesco Lagnese

Revered English fabric and interior designer Veere Grenney welcomes us into his three spectacular homes

World-renowned interior designer Veere Grenney takes us on an in-depth tour of his impressive residences in Tangier; Suffolk, England; and, for the first time, his new London home. The book begins with the Temple, his 18th-century Suffolk “pocket Palladian” set within the parkland of Tendring Hall and with views of the fishing lake and geranium-filled garden. Grenney called this picturesque sanctuary home for much of 2020. Next, with exclusive photographs and annotations, Grenney opens the doors for the very first time to his brand-new London home. Finally, Grenney welcomes us into his stunning Tangerine villa—a decade-long labor of love and must-see for all garden enthusiasts. Grenney has been praised by Schumacher creative director Dara Caponigro as knowing “when to pull out the stops and when to show quiet restraint, creating interiors that are, at once, serene and exciting and never forgetting that rooms should be comfortable and liveable.” This elegant volume showcases his skill in marrying traditional styles with contemporary living, and how his spectacular career has influenced the styling of his personal spaces.

Inside Yucatán

Hidden Mérida and Beyond

Susana Ordovás

Photography by Guido Taroni

Foreword by Martina Mondadori, founder and editor-in-chief of Cabana magazine.

Exploring forgotten regions of Mexico's Yucatán Peninsula, Susana Ordovás and photographer Guido Taroni uncover the faded splendor of both neglected and restored homes

Susana Ordovás's Inside Yucatán is an ode to the merging of the ancient with the contemporary. At the turn of the 20th century, more millionaires lived in Mérida than in any other city in the world, building and transforming breathtaking, lavish homes nestled into the surrounding tropical greenery like hidden jewels. Over time, nature conquered, leaving crumbling structures in place of what were once vibrant, ornately-decorated estates. But today, Ordovás reveals, Yucatán's "forsaken, decaying ruins, remnants of an illustrious past ... are awakening from a centuries-old siesta." Across Guido Taroni's evocative new photographs of 27 residences across the peninsula, in such places as Izamal, Mérida, and Valladolid, decadence and beauty shine through what remains of the homes' diverse styles, from colonial to Renaissance, Medieval to Moorish, and occasionally a combination of all. Setting the houses in context, three specially commissioned maps of the region have been beautifully illustrated by renowned artist Jesús Cisneros. In detailed commentary, Ordovás celebrates their eccentric, distressed charm and hails the revival of this magical land.

Sean Scherer's Vignettes

Sean Scherer

Designer, collector, and proprietor of the contemporary curiosity shop Kabinett & Kammer, Sean Scherer shares his secrets for composing vignettes of favorite objects, showing creative ways to incorporate both cherished possessions and flea-market finds

How do you make your home come alive with personality, charm, and memory? In the introduction to Sean Scherer's first book, Kabinett & Kammer: Creating Authentic Interiors, Anderson Cooper writes, "Scherer has a unique ability to place otherwise ordinary objects in a completely unexpected context or grouping and in so doing change the way you see them." In this new book, Scherer focuses in on the art of combining common objects into aesthetically pleasing groupings, or vignettes. Contending that a vignette can set the whole mood and tone of a room, he shows you how to use any surface in your home, from a tabletop to a bookshelf to a wall, to create lively displays of your favorite items. Beautifully illustrated with Scherer's own photographs, the book demonstrates how to balance color, texture, and shape, and provides lessons on how to create both symmetrical and asymmetrical vignettes. Whether you are an inveterate collector or just interested in giving expression to your unique taste, Vignettes shows you how to group the items you love in ways that can have a big impact on your interiors.

Rowing Blazers

Revised and expanded edition

Jack Carlson

Renowned designer and former US national team oarsman Jack Carlson's essential – and glorious – celebration of the classic rowing blazer and of rowing itself – now revised and expanded

This handsome, eye-catching ode to the classic rowing blazer is a must-have for anyone who has raced the rivers or cheered on their favorite crew. Classic American style was born in British boathouses, where the very first blazers were made for college rowing clubs. This book, now revised and expanded, was created by champion rower Jack Carlson, who offers an insider's guide to the elaborately striped, piped, trimmed, and badged garments, as well as the stories, historic clubs, and races associated with them and, of course, the elite athletes themselves. Featuring stunning color photographs, Rowing Blazers is a visual feast, transporting readers to the highly atmospheric boathouses, campuses, and team rooms of clubs around the world. This revised edition features some 40 additional clubs, including the University of Tokyo; the Shanghai Rowing Club; Row New York, a nonprofit organization stressing academic achievement as well as rowing prowess; and Manley Career Academy High School in Chicago, the first all-Black high school rowing team in the US.

The Tom Scheerer Compendium

Text by Tom Scheerer and Mimi Read

Photography by Francesco Lagnese

The best work by Tom Scheerer, the contemporary dean of American interior design, presented in a two-volume set with a stunning caning-patterned slipcase at an attractive price

Elegant. Restrained. Unpretentious. Sophisticated. Informal. These seemingly contradictory adjectives all characterize the inimitable interior design of Tom Scheerer, who has himself dubbed his style “Relaxed Modernism.” For more than three decades, he has brought his singular touch to city apartments, country houses, and tropical getaways. Each of the dozens of projects compiled in this two-volume set reveals the fierce intelligence, impeccable sense of proportion, and encyclopedic knowledge of design history that inform his deceptively effortless work. In a New York Times review of Scheerer’s first book, Tom Scheerer Decorates, design journalist David Netto describes it as “a highly personal exploration of the vanishing art of great American design, as pioneered by Van Day Truex, Billy Baldwin and Albert Hadley. Scheerer ... is perhaps its most expert proponent today.” This collection, slipcased in the pattern of the designer’s signature caning, confirms Scheerer’s inclusion in the American design pantheon.

Behind the Blue Door

John Demsey

Photography by Douglas Friedman

Text by Alina Cho

The decor of entrepreneur John Demsey's six-story townhouse on the Upper East Side of Manhattan, is an explosion of color, pattern, and art.

On a tree-lined New York City street, you can find an understated townhouse exterior that belies a feast for the eyes on opening its blue front door. Each room has its own saturated color scheme, filled with vibrant fabrics, new and vintage furniture, and knickknacks. For owner, John Demsey, it started with a pair of multicolored Louboutin boots - the inspiration behind the living room rug. Working with interior decorator and friend Bibi Monnahan, he carefully chose each furniture piece, work of art, decorative object, and mounted his vast photography collection.
