Our History Is Still Being Written

The Story of Three Chinese-Cuban Generals in the Cuban Revolution

BY ARMANDO CHOY, GUSTAVO CHUI, MOISÉS SÍO WONG, MARY-ALICE WATERS

Even more fascinating than its title and subtitle suggest, because all three generals have much to say about the war against the apartheid army in Angola, and the decisive Angolan and Cuban victory at Cuito Cuanavale, which ultimately brought the National Party to the negotiating table. Chui headed the 90th Tank Brigade in Malanje, and lost a leg when his vehicle hit an anti-tank mine in northern Angola.
