New Defender 110 - Indus Silver

Three new Oxford Diecast Land Rover Defenders have been tooled up to coincide with the appearance of the real thing, which was unveiled in September 2019. Two have already been released and now the New Land Rover Explorer rounds off the exciting new series, faithfully reproduced in Indus Silver, registered VCP 503. It is a replica of the new Defender 110 with a special Explorer Pack of accessories, one of four accessory packs called Explorer, Adventure, Urban and Country. With the same long wheelbase as the basic new 110, the Explorer features a matt black bonnet detail with the 110 brand printed on it. The Explorer Pack includes an exterior side-mounted gear carrier; an expedition roof rack; raised air intakes for protecting the engine when driving under dusty or sandy conditions; wheel arch protectors made of durable high quality composite material, offering protection for the wheels when driving in hazardous off-road conditions; and a stylish rear-mounted spare wheel cover bearing the Defender name.

Designed by Jaguar Land Rover's UK designer, Gerry McGovern, the car shares no component or technology with previous Defender models and appears with permanent all-wheel drive, locking differential, ZF 8-speed automatic transmission and an aluminium unibody instead of a body-on-frame construction.

We are sure you will be amazed at the level of detail and authenticity in 1:76 scale.

OXFORD

Welcome to our Final Globe for 2021! This year has been full of changes for us, but we will look to continue to improve our services over the next year. We will begin to see a lot of new tooling coming through as we anticipate the backlogs to improve and there will be some exciting, long awaited items for your layouts shortly.

Despite our best efforts, due to increasing delays on importation into the UK, we are unable to send out our annual Christmas Model to Platinum Members prior to Christmas. Unfortunately, this is a position that is out of control. We apologise for any inconvenience and disappointment this has caused. We will aim to ship these out in January.

You may have seen on our website, and mentioned in last month's copy of the Globe, the opportunity to win a special prize. There were five Golden Tickets being placed in orders in November and December, there are still 3 remaining to be found.

Visit our website for more information on the prize!

We also have some Gift Cards available to purchase on the website in values of £30/£50 and £100 - there is no better Gift than an Oxford Diecast Gift Card!

Finally, Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year. I hope this Christmas will be spent better for many of you than the last.

You've seen the inimitable Coca Cola brand on a wide range of Oxford models both classic and modern and in different scales. Adding to the 1:76 scale series is a model of the Austin Seven Van, which has already appeared in 1:43 scale in exactly the same colour scheme and level of detail.

Austin Seven RN Van - Coca Cola

Taking us back to the 1920s and 1930s, our bright yellow and black van with red and white Coca Cola graphics is typical of the small commercial that was so popular at the time, particularly with small businesses. The two-seater cabin had two bucket seats and a stripped out rear section for cargo, accessed by two rear doors. Our van authentically reproduces these details, including the two stylised windows to the rear. The interior of our model is completely black apart from tan door trim.

Appropriately registered CC 1931, the date is an indication of the era of our Austin Seven van. Slot it into your Coke timeline for additional colour.

Mercedes Ambulance -London Ambulance Service/Remembrance Day

This item was released early November to commemorate Remembrance Day and was available to purchase online. Unfortunately, it did not make the previous copy of the Globe. We held back some stock so it was able to be purchased by our Globe members.

For this release we feature an evocative colour scheme especially for Remembrance Day in November. Decorated in the bright yellow and green of the Service with highly visible orange and yellow chevron stripes on the back, our 1:76 scale model is registered LJ59 HNX. A panel on the sides features the emergency and nonemergency telephone numbers alongside the Service crest. Additional to all the NHS graphics is a shower of Flanders poppies that flow down both sides and down the bonnet of our ambulance. The model is presented in bespoke packaging and a donation of £1.25 from the sale of each model will be made to the LAS Charity.

The vehicle is a fitting tribute to both our Armed Forces in the field and also the Emergency Services who play a vital and selfless role in times of conflict.

The RAF Police are the users of this version of the Land Rover ½ ton Lightweight and they are on the prowl in Cyprus at the RAF base in Akrotiri.

This time the colour scheme is white on a black chassis with the customary olive green canvas back. The interior,

An orange band runs along the waist of the Land Rover from front to back with additional trim in silver. A clue to its purpose is the red and silver RAF POLICE plate embedded into the front bumper below the military registration plate 44 AJ 04. Another indication of it being a Police vehicle is the blue roof beacon. Rowdy revellers beware - an enforced lift back to camp may be on the cards!

1941 Lincoln Continental - Black and Tan

We go back a decade in the life of the Lincoln Continental, which has already appeared in 1956 and 1961 guise in the Oxford American Cars series. It is still pretty stylish for the period presented in hood down mode, featuring black body with light beige interior and hood, not forgetting the whitewall tyres and the usual mass of chrome. We love the unusually shaped radiator grille! Our car is registered in Missouri, number 126.737.

Foden FG 8-wheel Dropside - Denny's Transport

This replica truck is based on the original ODH 255 which had been registered in Walsall on 22nd January 1951. The colourful graphics of Denny's Transport indicate it travelled far and wide fulfilling daily services to England, Scotland and Wales.

The pale blue cab with black interior sits on a red chassis while the royal blue dropside trailer with brown planked out flatbed section has a wealth of cream lettering along the sides. The wheel arches and fuel tanks are lined out in cream too. The distinctive Foden radiator grille is black and silver with the diamond signature panel in silver on a pale blue ground.

AUTO REVIEW BOOKS £5.95

AR175 Corvette Album: One and three-quarter million Chevrolet Corvettes have been produced over eight decades, in eight distinct generations. The generations are usually abbreviated to the concise CI to C8, so we use those same classifications in this publication. The Corvette began as a little two-seat two-door sports car with a GRP body. Not expected to have a long life, it was considered for extinction by General Motors more than once, as its production volumes were tiny compared with other GM products. It survived, however, with ever-larger V8 engines and sometimes extravagant body styling. The Corvette went on to establish itself as the performance flagship of the General Motors range, evolving into a 500hp mid-engined supercar in the 21st century.

AR176 Made in Belgium: It is easily forgotten in the 21st century that Belgium was 'noted for finely-engineered motor cars' (T R Nicholson). Of more than 70 Belgian car manufacturers in the early years, most had amalgamated or closed down by the late 1930s. The few that remained mostly assembled cars originating in other countries, a sorry fate for illustrious marques. One or two names made a brief reappearance after the Second World War, a few of whom are described here, plus motorcycle manufacturer Saroléa, which made three-wheeler vehicles. Most car production in more recent decades in Belgium has been assembly of the products of the big automotive groups, which are briefly described here as well.
