

Shoreline Erosion Protection Measures: Cross-section Examples

Natural shorelines have many benefits including protection of water quality, providing terrestrial and aquatic habitat, and acts as a natural form of erosion protection. Below are varying degrees of hardened shoreline examples, however natural elements and bio-engineered solutions should first be considered when stabilizing soils for shoreline protection.

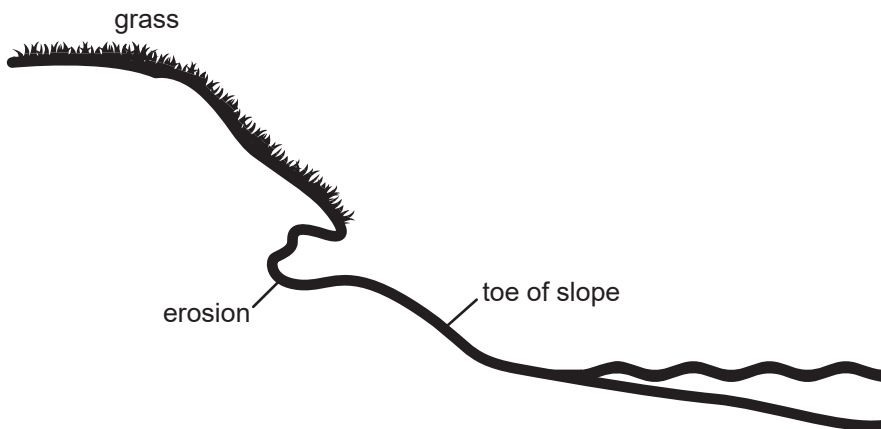

Example # 1 - existing vertical retaining wall

Example # 1 - proposed sloped rock protection

Example # 2 - existing eroded shoreline bank

Example # 2 - proposed tiered armour stone wall

