Disclaimer: I have no Naruto, no Inoyusha, no characters. If I did I wouldn't write fan fiction about them. Rear ground information: Minato, using a different type of printing, sealed Yin and Yang Kurama in Naruto before dying from Kurama's claw. Allows him to access either or both if he needs to. At the beginning of World War II, in Fort Shinobi, when it became clear that Obito and Madara wanted to resurrect the Ten Tails, Naruto and Kurama, in a desperate attempt to keep the Ten Tails from a complete return, merged into one creature. By making himself incompatible with Gedo Mazo, because of the fact that Naruto is still part (if only soul.) human being. This, however, had a side effect that Naruto did not expect. It made him immortal. After defeating Obito, Madara and Kaguya, Naruto was forced to fight for the last time. This time against his former friend and teammate, Sauke Uchiha. To put an end to the war of reincarnations of the sage of the Two Sons of the Sixth Way once and for all. Naruto sealed Sask, thus making him where the older brother would no longer be reincarnated. As a reminder of his once friend, and the choices he was forced to make, for the benefit of all. Naruto took Sask's sword as his own. Sealing parts of the other eight Tailed Beast Chakra, as well as a body piece of ten tails and Kuram's consciousness in the sword. Naruto named the sword Ku no Dankesu (Unity of the Nine). After that, Naruto took Madara's eye and implanted them for himself. Rinnegana, Naruto sent the remaining Tailed Beast into a dimension devoid of human life. Where they no longer have to fear being sealed and used as weapons. Naruto became Hokage. Where he helped form the United Shinobi Advocate, which consisted not only of the Great Five Villages, but also of many smaller ones. This led to lasting peace, as those who were not part of the council did not want to insuing anger. At first glance, everything seemed perfect. But in fact it (at least for Naruto) was far from it. When Naruto was forced to observe those he loved of age and die while he remained young and whole forever, he realized that it was he who had sacrificed to bring peace to the world. His humanity. And so, on history. The wish of death. The pain of loss. Naruto has never been easy. Forced to grow alone and neglected as hated and ignored. It seemed his whole life was one big struggle. But when he looked into the lifeless eyes of his beautiful wife, Hinata. He mused that he had never felt pain like this before. Even when he merged with Kurama and felt his human flesh burn. She, except herself, was the last of the Twelve Konoha, and now she was gone... And he was alone. They didn't have, didn't have kids, it was another on a long list of flaws to be bijuu. You had almost unlimited power, but you could not reproduce, and although he may look human, Naruto was actually bijuu . Are you sure you want to go through this, old friend? The old man asked beside him. Yes Konohamaru. I'm sure. Naruto said as he looked at his old pupil. It was a kind of confusion as he looked like his grandfather, the Third, in old age. I finally understand what Sauke wanted all those years ago. It wasn't revenge or revolution, it was death! He wanted me to kill him, to finally put an end to his pain. The pain of loss. Naruto looked back at his late wife's body before continuing. I realize that now when I look to the future without it in it. Konohamaru sighed when he saw his old hero defeated. It's almost funny in a sad way. The only enemy that could crush his spirit was the prospect of an immortal life without those he loved, his precious people. After all, the only opponent who ever truly defeated him was time. Where are you going? He asked the old war hero. Mon Mebok, for a while. Until I can find a solution to my problem. Out... Who knows? Said Naruto as he got up from where he knelt down. Have you consulted them? He asked Konohamara, gestulating with Naruto's sword. Maybe they know the way. Naruto shook his head sadly. Nine, I don't know what it's like. I've already asked. All right, Saeed Konohamaru. I will miss you ... Brother. Naruto smiled sadly, hugging his older living friend. I Am I I miss you, old friend. I promise one day I'll meet you again in the Pure World. Believe! Four days later, Naruto stood in a bedroom he shared with his wife of more than sixty-five years. Naruto looked at himself in the mirror, dressed in a black shinobi uniform, with a red sash haori. He was so similar to his father that it wasn't even funny. Ok... almost, anyway. After the merger, Naruto's hair was stained in the blood. Add this to the sharp claws and longer fangs, and it was hard to take it for anything other than that it was... Bijuu in human form. However, Naruto realized that it could have been worse ... it could get ears and tail or even worse tails. As it was at least, it still somewhat passed for the man at a distance. It was his eyes, though it really shook him. When he took Madara's eyes, he expected them to be stuck in their Form Ofnergan, as Nagato was. But instead, he not only could disable them and move between Sharingan, Eternal Mangekyo Sharingan, and Rinnegan. But when he closed them, his eyes were not Uchha black, but the bright blue of his original eyes. His eyes were the only part of his body that was, perhaps, still human. Naruto came out of the bedroom and headed down the stairs to the kitchen. Opening the cupboard with food, Naruto smiled softly. Instead of containers of food, it was packed full of scrolls. Inside the scrolls was all the food he needed for years. Including the scroll, which was one of Naruto's valuable possessions, as it contained a lifetime reserve, Ichiraku Ramen. Something Naruto and a couple hundred of his shadow clones helped Teuti do before the old man passed. Making sure everything was ready, Naruto grabbed an empty scroll from Jonin's vest and walked out of the side. By unfurling the scroll and putting it on the ground, Naruto ran through the hand signs before he slammed his hand over the scroll. Uzumaki Style: Four Symbols Print! The black marks seemed to run to the house, from the scroll where his hand was on. The house disappeared in a giant cloud of smoke. When the smoke cleared, the house was gone, and the scroll where his hand was was was a whirlwind of Uzumaki with four symbols surrounding him. Taking his Mobil Home Naruto rolled the scroll back and shoved it into his vest. With this he hiraishined to the top of the monument to Hokage, where his and Konohamaru heads were added. Naruto once again looked at the village of his birth. His life here may not always have been great, but it will always be his home! He wondered if he had separated in his quest, would there be Konoha in a clean world? He was hoping for it. Goodbye, Konoha. Stay safe! It was all he said as he once again used Hiraishin to teleport to Mount Myoboku.Naruto spent most of his time on Mount Myoboku alone or in the company of several of his toad friends, such Gamakichi and Gamatatsu, or Ma and Pa. Fortunately, the Mont-Meub had a much longer lifespan than humans. So at least Naruto doesn't have to worry about watching them die yet! And given that the Great Elder Toad Sage was still alive in the time of the Sage of the Six Ways, Naruto believed that it would be several thousand years before he too. Nevertheless, he spent most of his time alone in search of a way to end his immortal existence. So the years went on and went. It was after the first two hundred years that Naruto refused to find a solution to his problem in his world. He has exhausted all his options except one. Try to find the answer to another world... Another dimension! So Naruto, using the full might of Rinnegan, began to look for various dimensions to put an end to his suffering. For a hundred years, Naruto observed many different worlds with his Rinnegan. Most of them were really strange to him, like a world full of what was known as Super Heroes. The most powerful of which were called the League of Justice. While he thought it would be great to fight some of them to see how powerful they really are, he still didn't see a way for him to become mortal again in this world. So his search continued. He saw a world where a corporation known as the Umbrella unleashed a virus that brought back the dead like flesh-eating corpses. This dimension made him tremble, defiantly not what he was looking for! He even watched one world with a purple singing dinosaur... he moved quickly on. Just before he was about to give up ever finding the answer he was looking for, he came across something that looked promising. The world is less advanced than its own. But in many ways similar, they even spoke the same language! But what really caught his attention was a powerful Jewel called Shikon but Tama. Jewel that could satisfy the desire of its owner! Here it is! The answer he was looking for! He watched as a young girl fired an arrow at the Jewel, smashing it into a pile of small shrapnel. After talking to the toads, and resealing his house. Naruto focused on a certain time for the world he was going to, inspired by the power of the Tailed Beasts and the part of Jubi that was sealed with a sword in his Rinnegan, he opened a portal between the worlds. It was his goal to show about a hundred years before the girl shot him with an arrow. He could appear, and make his death a wish, before anyone was wiser. Unfortunately, Naruto doesn't count on two things! The first is a world that was so full of demonic energy that it had to have little impact on its power. And two: Sometimes fate just loved to fuck him! For he would not appear at the time he wanted ... but the time that it was needed! (A.N) I'm not sorry for the short But it was only to establish the story anyway. I meant to write this for a while, but never got around this is. I don't make any promises about how fast I will update as I have many other stories that need updating as well. As much as I hate to say it. My upgrade order more or less depends on the type of feedback I receive and how many favorites and follows. But that's not always the case, sometimes I just want to write a chapter. Well, I hope you all enjoyed it. Don't be afraid to consider, and I'll see you next time. Sincerely: Reddog24485. Reddog24485.
