Consignment Agreement

- Consignments must be approved and scheduled by Turn The Tables prior to delivery. Upon approval, consigned items must be delivered to us in clean, sellable condition. Consignor is responsible for any delivery costs to/from our shop. We can recommend a reliable delivery service if required.
- The consignor receives 50% of the actual selling price. After the initial retail price is set there will be a price reduction of 15% after 30 days on the floor. Standard consignment period is 60 days.
- The consignor may retrieve any item at any time prior to the expiration of the consignment period. However, we will not re-consign that item.
- Consignor may NOT advertise items for sale while they are in our shop or the consignment period will be terminated.
- Unsold items, upon expiration of consignment period, can either be picked up by the consignor or become the property of Turn The Tables. It is the consignor's responsibility to be aware of the ending consignment date if they wish to retrieve items! A 5 day grace period will be granted, to allow consignors time to retrieve their unsold items. If unsold items are not retrieved within the 5 day grace period, they will become the property of Turn The Tables.
- During the consignment period, If consignor incurs loss due to fire, theft, breakage, or any unforeseen cause, the consignor may receive either the "initial" 50% consigned value or the amount which Turn The Tables insurance coverage will allow for, not to exceed the initial 50% consigned value. Due to insurance deductibles and conditions, Turn The Tables cannot guarantee insurance coverage to consignors.
