

MONA

How've you been?

JACK

A little bit busy.

MONA

What have they offered you Jack?

JACK

What are you talking about?

MONA

All I'm asking is if Falcone's upped his price.

JACK

Sixty-five

MONA

For me? That prick's living in the past. I'd up that five times.

$325,000. Half now. Half on delivery.

JACK

For what?

MONA

Go to him. Tell him it's been done.

JACK

What's been done?

MONA

Tell him I'm already dead Jack. Later on we'll get ourselves a body.

JACK

Until they do an autopsy.

MONA

That's all the time I need. My money's no good?

JACK

Your money's got more risk.

MONA

More risk, more pay. The autopsy will confirm that it's me.

JACK

And how's that gonna happen?

MONA

You think you're the only person in the world that's been bought?

You got a girl? What is it? Cathy? Linda? Susan?

JACK

Sheri.

MONA

Cocktail waitress. Maloney's. Yeah? You take your money and your Sheri and you'll be a big guy. All I need is a couple of days to finish my business and get out of the country. It's yours. It's all yours. All you gotta do is take it. Go on Jack. Go on. All you gotta do is take it. (He checks the money) Tuesday? The docks?

JACK

The other half?

MONA

Death certificate? (They kiss)