Strengthening the core is an important aspect of any workout program. Not only does a strong and solid core look good, but more importantly, it helps to stabilize, balance, and power the body during just about every other activity. Core strength is the basis for all coordinated and powerful athletic movements. A strong core can reduce stress on the joints and allow you to achieve better posture. The plank exercise can be used as the basis for a core muscle strength and stability test. The plank is more of a strength-building exercise than a cardio exercise, but by engaging a range of muscles it does boost your calorie burn a bit.

I'm sure many people can relate to this in some way. Not necessarily from a depression to happy perspective but for many of us, it's more than what people think. And I always remember that whenever I see things on here. We all have things that aren't shown on a fitness photo. Let's give people the benefit of the doubt more. Support and appreciate
*not a cry for help, I'm ok guys
