The origins

In Greek mythology, Prometheus, creator of humanity, transmitter of fire, father of all arts and techniques, used a hollow ferula rod to steal the sacred fire and give it to the human race. Thanks to its combustible properties, Men were able to create their first tools.

At the Cristallerie de Montbronn, our first and most important tool is the human hand, more precisely those of our expert craftsmen with their incomparable know-how. Just like the myth of Prometheus, crystal has an equally important relationship with fire : it is also born from combustion: the molten material forms a glowing ball at a temperature of 1200°C, which is then manipulated in order to create exceptional pieces.

Crystal is one of the most poetic materials there is: produced from the fusion of the purest earth, fine and immaculate sand, offering a perfect refraction of the sunlight. All of the creations of our House seek to be perfect muses to the poetry of crystal. Cristallerie de Montbronn is located in the heart of the historic Vallée du Cristal. Also known as the «Route du verre et du cristal», this little corner of paradise for all crystal lovers links the main glass and crystal factories of Lorraine and the Northern Vosges. A unique artisanal and artistic heritage whose worldwide reputation is well established.

Since the Middle Age, Lorraine's glass factories have taken advantage of the region's extremely prolific supply of sand, wood, and water, the three materials necessary for the creation of crystal; but it was not until the 17th century that a new wave of glass activity appeared on the borders of Lorraine and Alsace.

Throughout History, technical evolution and the symphony of heritage, glassworks and crystal factories opened their doors, one by one.

1930 to end of 2015 : a family business

Our story begins in 1930. Joseph Louis Ferstler, crystal lover, initiated a passion that he passed on to his two sons, Alain and Gérard Ferstler, who took over the family business in 1977. From the very beginning, the crystal factory excelled in the small premises of the humble Lorraine village of Montbronn, which thus participated in the formation of what is now called the «Vallée du Cristal». Passion and productivity animate the walls of the company, which will reach in 1960 more than 100 dedicated workers, motivated by their love of crystal.

The company climbed the ladder and entered the international trade in 1977 when the Ferstler sons took over the business, bringing a modern touch to the company. In 1986, the Cristallerie de Montbronn won the “Grand Prix de la Créativité”, celebrating the dedicated and precise work of our craftsmen. Two years later, in 1988, the company won the “Grand Prix Export Fondexpa”, a time period that is particularly dear to the entire team of the Cristallerie de Montbronn and which continues to fuel its motivation.

2007 marks a new turning point for the Cristallerie de Montbronn, which is awarded the EPV (“Entreprise du Patrimoine Vivant”) label, honouring the company’s exceptional know-how. The following year, Cristallerie de Montbronn won the «Stars et Métiers» award in the «Dynamique commerciale» category. These are important awards in the eyes of our team, which we carry with pride and honour.

2016 to today : a renewal wind

Since 2016, the Cristallerie de Montbronn has been run by Frédéric Muller, accompanied by his wife Gabrielle and their daughter, Camille. The three of them bring ambition and exceptional work to lead the Cristallerie de Montbronn towards a future that is all the more brilliant.

About twenty talented craftsmen continue to carry on the know-how by bringing their constantly evolving techniques to the creation of new collections. Together, they breathe a wind of novelty and innovation that has earned the Cristallerie de Montbronn a multi-national reputation as well as the unparalleled trust of its prestigious clients; collaborations that contribute to the evolution and continuous advancement of the world of luxury.

Regularly, our creative and technical teams work on the conception of novelties, creating new collections with a classical or contemporary look and technique.

Cristallerie de Montbronn has a wide range of 13 colours in layered crystal that is in constant expansion. Each collection illustrates the timelessness of crystal with ever more advanced or minimalist designs.

Finally, each piece is subject to rigorous quality control, and careful and meticulous packaging before leaving our workshops to be delivered worldwide.

KNOW-HOW

CRYSTAL BLOWING

Just like the myth of Prometheus (recounted in our History), crystal is also born from a combustion. The magic of crystal is made when the molten material forms a glowing ball, at a temperature of 1200°C (2192°F).

The glass craftsmen must then carry out a continuous rotation of the cane in order to obtain a homogeneous form, forming what essentially is crystal. All in all, crystal is one of the most poetic materials there is: a product of the fusion of the purest earth, fine and immaculate sand, offering a perfect refraction of sunlight.

Cristallerie de Montbronn is specialized in the making of custom-made molds, allowing the continuous concrete realization of our new collection designs.

The realization of the drawings and prototypes is carried out in our offices, while the manufacturing of the molds is entrusted to a specialist and carried out under a short period of time ; an efficient teamwork for a perfect harmony.

KNOW-HOW

CRYSTAL CUTTING

Freehand cutting gives each piece its unique character.

The cutting is done cold, when the crystal has been previously blown and the shape of the piece shaped, all done by hand.

The rough outline and cutting are done with sandstone or diamond grindstones, rotating at very high speed.

A gentle trickle of precious water, mixed with sand, flows over the grindstone : the water cools the piece down, and the sand reinforces its work.

The pieces made by Cristallerie de Montbronn stand out thanks to a wide variety of crystal cuts, going from the most traditional (diamonds, stars, flat cuts, bevels ...) to the most modern, both in their entity as in their use.

Moreover, this work is carried out with great mastery, sometimes imposing a game of expert meticulousness with the strength of the material.

KNOW-HOW

CRYSTAL POLISHING

Crystal polishing removes all traces of tools and molds from the surface of the piece and gives the material its precious shine and smoothness.

Cristallerie de Montbronn has its own polishing station, left in the hands of our expert in the field, Freddy.

In this chemical polishing process, the piece is dipped in a hydrofluoric acid bath. When the acid comes into contact with the crystal, it regains its original shine and gives a clean, sparkling appearance to the material.

Mechanical polishing is also used by Cristallerie de Montbronn. The crystal piece is then polished with a polishing wheel when acid polishing is not appropriate.

Polishing is the intermediate step before gilding and signing.

KNOW-HOW

CRYSTAL GILDING

Once the glass has been cut and polished, gilding is the final and most time-consuming step in the creation of a crystal piece. Indeed, gilding requires more than 20 steps on each product to achieve the desired result.

Virginie, a crystal decorator at the Cristallerie de Montbronn, places a decal with the desired design on the glass. The piece is entirely protected so that only the design is visible. A final step is then necessary to allow the design to reveal itself.

The gilding is applied on the crystal with a brush in the embed parts, a work of extreme precision performed by hand.

The piece is then baked to set the gilding, then polished with a precious mineral to make the gold shine.

We are now proud to offer you 5 colors of precious finish: rose gold, matte gold, shiny gold, platinum and black chrome, all detailed on their dedicated page.

KNOW-HOW

CRYSTAL BLASTING

Crystal blasting is a technique used when the crystal is cold. It consists of creating a matte appearance to the crystal by frosting.

At the Cristallerie de Montbronn, the sandblasting process is long and rigorous: a sandblasting mask is created digitally and produced in our workshops using a UV machine.

The mask, or layer, is then applied to the product, isolating the sandblasted parts from the rest. Finally, the product is transferred to a cabin where a fine sand is projected at very high pressure; the sand attacks the product in more or less depth and digs the pattern to make it matte.

This technique, regularly used in crystal work, was invented in the 1870s and continues to be used to this day.

KNOW-HOW

BRONZE CRAFTING

Working in close collaboration with smelting plants in the Grand Est region, Cristallerie de Montbronn is keen to highlight regional know-how and offers majestic pieces combining crystal and bronze.

The bronze pieces are melted in molds belonging to Cristallerie de Montbronn, made on command and arriving in our workshops in separate pieces.

The assembly of the bronze and the crystal parts is done in our workshops. The welding work is entirely done in our workshops, by our master bronze worker, Denis.

Once the composition of the bronze piece is finished, the skeleton is sent to gilding. The piece is then entirely immersed in a 24-carat gold bath or in a platinum bath for a shiny and ravishing final result.

COLOUR-LAYERED CRYSTAL

As of 2022, Cristallerie de Montbronn offers a range of 13 different colours of colour-layered crystal, from the most traditional to the most modern. In constant evolution, our company is committed to offering as many customization possibilities as possible to our customers who share our love for the poetic material that is crystal and is ambitious about the continuous future expansion of our rich colour range.

The realization of a coloured crystal glass requires the combination of several elements and consequent work, as well as particular know-how that witnesses our craftsmen's excellence. Until the 19th century, colour specialists were mostly concentrated in Bohemia, the highplace of glass art. It was not until the aforementioned century that this know-how arrived in France.

In terms of equipment, it is necessary to use a pot furnace, with several crucibles containing colouring metal oxides (nickel, copper, chromium, cobalt ...) previously added to the classic composition. Two successive layers of crystal, one clear, and the other coloured, make up the glass. From then on, the cut made on the glass will let the first layer of clear crystal appear,
