

Designed to reflect the beauty and character of 18th century reclaimed French Oak, these magnificent floors bring a luxurious depth and dimension found in aged and worn planks from a time long past. Each floor maps out century old characteristics found in manor house and European palace floors. From well-worn uneven surfaces, cupped and distressed edges, open and pronounced knots, the workmanship in these floors are second to none. The planks are aged using natural oxidation processes working with the tannins in the oak. Still 100% environmentally friendly with zero emissions meeting worldwide compliance standards. These wide planks exude luxury and authenticity allowing the floor to continue to age timelessly within one's home.
