

Why Mindr?

If you or a loved one have never experienced a fire in your home, something like the Mindr fire safety device has probably never come up in conversation. Until now.

Since the introduction of Mindr, a small device that connects bedroom doors and smoke detectors to increase protection from fire, people have been purchasing units and installing them. Why? To keep their loved ones safe while they sleep. The Mindr mission is to slow fire growth, reduce damage, and create survivable space for people and pets who are unable to immediately escape.

One reviewer, Kristi S., is the wife of a fireman and one of the first Mindr purchasers. “Being married to a firefighter, it has always been a struggle to get our kids to sleep their doors open. Even when we manage to get them asleep with the door closed, we often find it open in the morning,” Kristi explained, “Thanks to Mindr we don’t have to worry about this anymore. Very easy to install and simple to test and operate. Thanks for making such an important product!!!”

Robin K. lost her home in a fire when she was young. “When I was 13 years old, we had a home fire. My mom discovered the fire by opening a door and the flames jumped out at her as fire fed off the oxygen. In that type of emergency situation, I don’t think someone remembers to go around their home and close all their doors. I am not even sure that is common knowledge that closing doors can help drastically slow the spread of a fire. I think my mom panicked and did what was necessary to get me out of the house. Thankfully my dad and brother were not home at the time,” Robin remembered. “All I know is at 13 years old, we lost our home and this type of product would have been really helpful in saving our home, belongings and, maybe in another situation, it would save a human life.”
