All beautiful things have one thing in common: their simplicity.

Sedus has been designing and making office furniture of the future for more than a century. We aim for nothing short of perfection. The Sedus temptation four table system proves that the ultimate in technology and supreme functionality does not have to be complicated. This next generation of office tables is unsurpassable in its simplicity, flexibility, practicality and elegance. Whether as a foundation for newcomers or an extension system for professionals – Sedus temptation four makes furnishing a breeze. Simply beautiful.

Design: Andreas Struppler

Reduced to the maximum – ultimate functionality and flawless design.

The gently angled cross-rail underneath the table edge is designed with functionality in mind. It allows additional elements such as return tables, computers, printers or other components to be attached easily and at any location along the rail, without affecting the stability of the table.

Another feature is the 19 mm table top. Not only is it extremely light, but when combined with the cross-rail, it is also ahead of its time. In fact, Sedus temptation four complies with the EU standard, in effect since August 2011, which limits the thickness of the edge of the table to 5.5 cm to guarantee greater leg space.

For those who aim high: Sedus temptation four is available in three different frame versions. With a fixed height of 72 cm, with an adjustable height of 68 to 76 cm via a screw-in spindle and with a freely adjustable height of 62 to 85 cm via a telescopic mechanism (Fig. on left).

Private sphere, without feeling hemmed in.

The easily adaptable Sedus screen and sound absorbers provide space for personal freedom and create a pleasant working atmosphere.

The perfect solution for saving space and expense. Thanks to the unique stability of the temptation four table tops, connectors and cross-rails, one can create double tables with large team tables.

Versatile through and through. Be it a single, elegant table or a complex system – Sedus temptation four offers choice when it comes to office furnishing. Here, the desk-height pedestal further enlarges the available work surface. For that very special, refined look: the walnut worktop.

As individual as one's character. Workstations reflect one's personality. Straight or angled, minimal or ornate, large or small: the possible combinations are endless. The return table here also provides extra work and storage space.

Every individualist's dream:
total freedom to be yourself.

The stable structure and modular concept makes almost any conceivable workstation possible. Space-saving bench configurations are as quick to install as complex office landscapes.

With perfectly coordinated modules, including dividers, pedestals or screen and sound absorbers, even open-plan offices can become separate oases of calm.

More space, more room, more communication.

A number of workstations can be combined quickly and easily to form a large bench. Recessed legs create a continuous work space with great freedom of movement and a communicative atmosphere.

Working comfort in the most confined space.

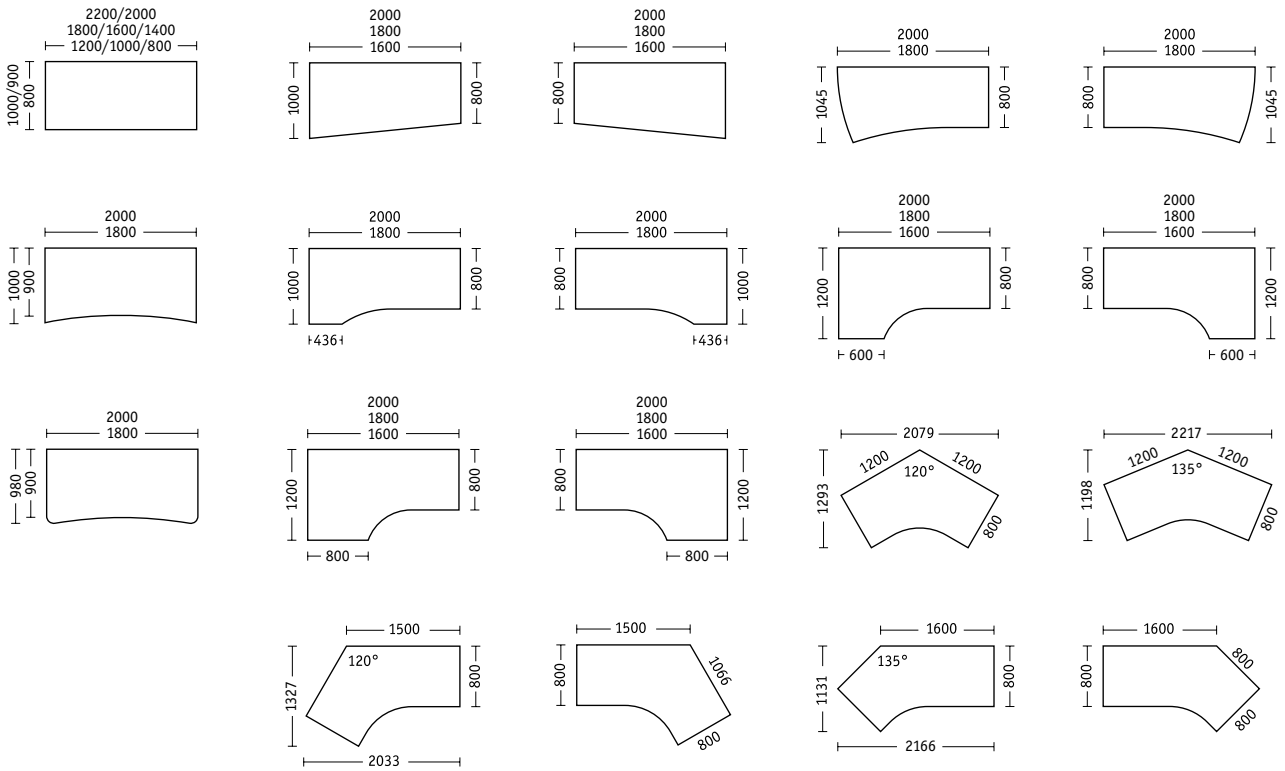

The temptation four table system even creates comfortable multiple workstations in very confined spaces.

Already one of the classic conference tables.

Its purist design and stability make Sedus temptation four ideal for furnishing sophisticated conference rooms.
