A Leicestershire quarry is set to massively benefit having joined the growing number of sites using a free pump monitoring website.

Following a recent visit to East Leake by operator Atlantic Pumps to record details of the pumps, Bill Newton, Assistant Quarry Manager at the CEMEX owned site now has access to the Pump Register.

The Register will allow Mr. Newton to monitor and manage the quarries pumps and brings together details including the make and model of the pump, the head and the flow, details of the application and a photo of the pump. The Register, which has seen a significant increase in traffic of late, is completely free to sign up to and use and is available to all markets.

Talking about the Register, Atlantic Pumps Internal Sales Coordinator, Ryan Hall said “The Pump Register is a great tool for area managers who want to see across several sites. The website is easy to understand and simple to use”.

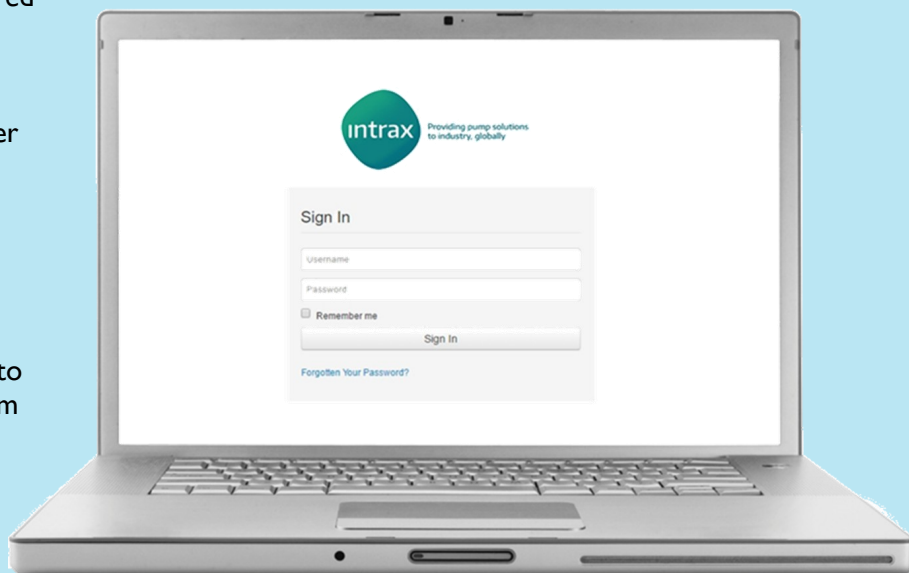

Adding your sites pumps to the Pump Register has a number of benefits:

- It massively speeds up quoting and hence delivery time if you have a pump that goes down
- It helps both you and Atlantic identify details when new spares are required
- It allows you to establish service reminders if needed
- If you have several sites, the register will help you to standardise your pumps, which results in simpler maintenance and better pricing.
