“The unique historic location of the restaurant in the city, its well-selected wines and a tasteful kitchen enticed countless people to a stop in the city of red wine.” - this honor was given to Winzerkeller Ingelheim during the commemorative publication on the 50th anniversary of the wine-cooperative Nieder-Ingelheim in the year of 1951.

During the year of 1901, the wine cooperative Nieder-Ingelheim was founded with initially 60 members. The reason was the concern over a high quality grape harvests that could not be fully processed or sold. In great teamwork and with the mindset “One for all. All for one” this issue should be resolved. However, the fragmented and decentralized processing of the grapes led the members to decide to build their own winery, on December 21st, 1902.

The implementation and construction of the now listed Winzerkeller building started in 1904 under the direction of architect Wilhelm Kahm from Eltville. The construction costs amounted to 100,000 marks (former German currency) and an additional 20,000 marks to increase the loading capacity of the vaulted cellar. The winemakers extracted foundation pit provided their own personal wagons for the work. The linden trees and plane trees in the cellar garden were donated by Baroness von Erlanger.

The side house was at that time used as a residence of the cellar master. After the wine crisis in the 1920s, the cooperative was forced to be converted into an enterprise and opened its own restaurant in the early 1930s. In 1948 the wine cellar was renovated for the first time. A new entrance at the west side of the building was constructed and the roof was replaced. At this time the cellar master's residence on the upper floor was extended and built into a common room. In 1971 the once two independent wine cooperatives Nieder-Ingelheim and Ober-Ingelheim united to become Ingelheim's official wine cooperative.

A second renovation took place after the Winzerkeller building was leased by the Roos family in 1993 who successfully ran a restaurant inside the building until 2013. Already in 2009, the city council decided to buy and renovate the building in order to bring new life into the wine cellar.

Until today the Winzerkeller has been used for meeting and events. After the elaborate renovation from 2016 to 2019 by the renowned architectural firm Heinrich Böll (Essen, Germany), the common room on the first floor and, for the first time, the vaulted cellar in the first basement floor are available for celebrations and events. The “Winzerkeller Restaurant” is located in the same rooms as the former restaurant and until today, guests can enjoy the view from the terrace towards the Rhine river. The Winzerkeller is also home to the 2019 newly established Vinothek Ingelheim and the cities tourist information center.

We are welcoming you to enjoy the silhouette of land, nature and history with us and wish you a pleasant time in the Winzerkeller in Ingelheim.
