

ENCORE APPAREL HOLDS ANNUAL MUSIC FESTIVAL

Photos by Joe Prezioso

Encore Apparel of Charlestown held its first annual music concert at the Shipyard Park this past Saturday, Oct. 17, showcasing the Charlestown High School band. There hasn't been a band at CHS for 21 years, until the hiring of Adam Calus by headmaster William Thomas. With donations and funding, the school has slowly been putting a music program back together. The Encore concert was set to raise funds for the high school band by showcasing local bands, including the Vierling-Claassen Family.

Sara Sucher (front) and Terry Mulligan work on decorating pumpkins for display at the concert.

The Vierling-Claassen family played after CHS with mom, Angela, on guitar and daughter, Harriet, on vocals.

Singer and drummer Jordan Knight kept things cool as he took lead on the mic.

MAINTAINING THE URBAN TREE

Watering, fertilizer and pest control maintenance are the three key ingredients for healthy trees in the urban jungle. Newly planted trees require continued watering, 10 gallons per week on the average throughout their active growing season. If you have a watering hose, set it at low pressure and water once a week for approximately one-half hour or more often during periods of hot weather. Best times to water are early morning or evening.

When fertilizing young trees, one application in the spring is adequate. A slow release, high-nitrogen fertilizer can be used for the first four years. Do not fertilize any tree in midsummer. Mature trees need not be fertilized on a yearly basis.

The days of public spraying of trees with insecticides and pesticides are a thing of the past. Contact a certified arborist to diagnose and manage insect and disease problems.

Bailin Zhu on bass.

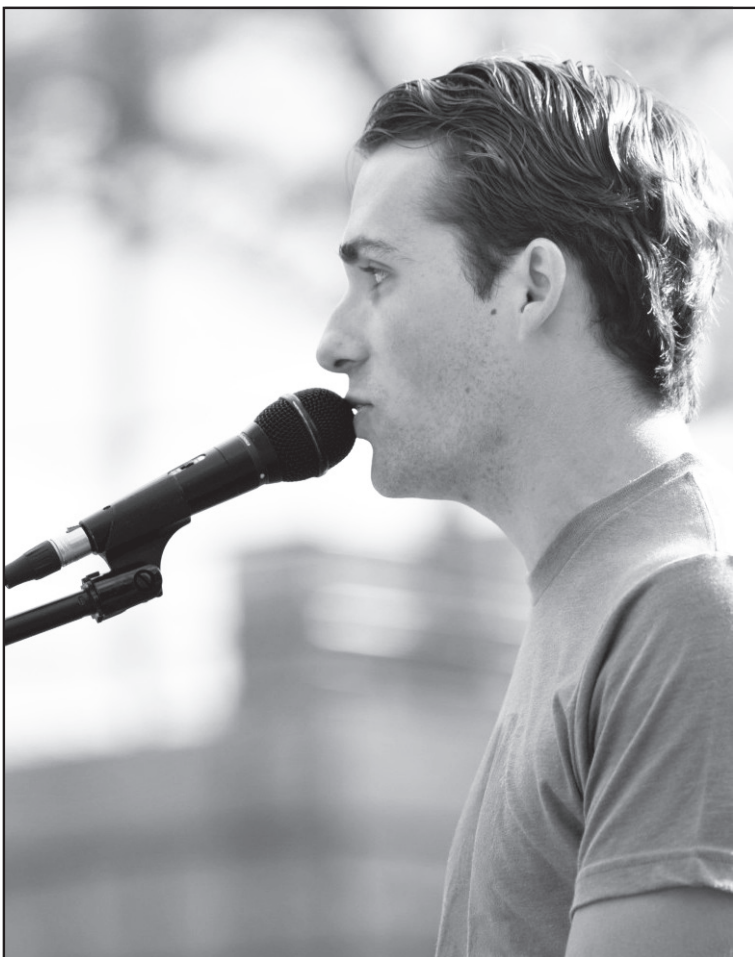

Brianna Hubert on drums.

Diane Jin and her Daughter, Isabel, enjoy the concert.

While his dad, Casey, kept things going at the Encore Apparel concert last Saturday afternoon, little Chase Patton of Charlestown decided to just play in the leaves at Shipyard Park.

Music teacher Adam Calus took to the keyboards and lead vocals to lead the CHS band.
