Tools Needed:

- Chain Nose Pliers
- Scissors to cut the ribbon

Directions:

1. To start the wrapping, lay about an inch of the ribbon flat against the pendant at the top next to the loop. Then start wrapping the ribbon, tightly, over the pendant and then through the middle. You will be wrapping over the one inch part you laid flat in the beginning. This secures the ribbon in place.
2. Start with the first "peg" and then skip every other peg wrapping tightly as you go. You may need to adjust your ribbon as you go, reposition, loosen, or tighten, etc.
3. Once you have about 3-5 wraps left to go, you will want to loosely wrap those and then feed the end of the ribbon back through those wraps. As you do this, you will want to tighten your wraps and pull the end tighter. This will take some finessing.
4. Once you have all the wraps positioned the way you want, nice and tight, you will have the end of your ribbon to pull tight and then trim the access ribbon off.
5. Attach a jump ring to the top loop on the pendant, close that jump ring.
6. Attach another jump ring to that jump ring and add to the loop on the earring post, close that jump ring.
7. Repeat all the steps for the other earring.
