THE PROCESS

Each sconce is hand cast using a technique that creates a rich, rippling texture with subtle bubbles. The enchanting tones of this walnut selection in 4 finishes elegantly contrasts the textured glass of the Bruma collection.

Each Bruma sconce is one of a kind and hand cast by our artisans using techniques that create either a rich, rippling surface, or a sand-blasted frosted texture.

Offered in two size options, the Bruma Sconce opens a world of possibilities for customization for any space. Beautiful individually or in multiples, this sconce makes a statement.

FULL HOUSE

Many companies outsource and import the finishes of their pieces. We have our own in-house artisan metal and wood experts right here at our headquarters.

Every part of handcrafting our lights is carefully considered and done at our vertically integrated headquarters. While glass might get the spotlight, it shouldn't outshine the finishes.

ON VERTICAL INTEGRATION

Vertical integration is a practice of bringing more operations in-house. For us, this means that we don't just blow glass. Vertical integration makes sense both for quality of our objects and the people who make them. It's true, by doing it ourselves we improve the quality. But it also creates US jobs, where working conditions are often better than overseas factories. It lowers our footprint by saving resources needed to ship freight, and allows us to always opt for more sustainable means of production.

CONTACT

The doors are always open at our Minneapolis headquarters, and for out-of-towners, we love connecting digitally as well.
