We've rounded up the best gear to take the stress out of traveling with children. You're welcome.

Delta Children Clutch Fold & Go Stroller

Not looking to spend $450 or so on your travel stroller? You don't have to: The Clutch Stroller from Delta Children is a perfectly good piece of hardware that costs $150. It's light, at just 12 pounds, and it is rated to support kids up to 50 pounds. The Clutch folds down in just a couple of seconds with a bit of practice, and it has a side handle for easy carrying when it's packed down. The sun visor isn't as generous as that of the YOYO2, and it's not quite as smooth or agile as that Babyzen stroller, but The Clutch punches well above its price point.
