Want to help your busy tot burn off some energy? Ditch the screens and invest in a couple of outdoor toddler toys. There are so many options to choose from, but you can't beat a classic swing set. Babies, toddlers and bigger kids alike love the thrill of soaring through the air—and this Baby Shark-inspired swing by Delta Children is our pick of the bunch. It was a big hit with our product tester's daughter, who "loved playing with the swing and kept asking to be pushed."

Assembly is required, but it comes with everything you need to install the swing on an existing jungle gym. Our tester said it took about 20 minutes to set up and noted that "the instructions were very clear and informative." It's made from a durable, weather-resistant plastic, meaning it'll withstand the elements for years to come. The comfortable bucket seat has a high back, providing added support for kids who like to lean back while they swing. And, because safety is key, a three-point harness ensures your child stays securely in place. (The swing also meets all ASTM safety standards.) Once your kid outgrows the harness, it can be removed for added longevity.

Of course, utilitarian features are all well and good, but the real star of the show is obviously everybody's favorite musical sensation: Baby Shark. Seeing one of their favorite cartoon characters on the headrest is a sure-fire way to get a kid excited about a new toy. In fact, our product tester awarded this toy a full 5 out of 5 score when rating her 13-month-old's reaction: "she was so excited to sit in a new type of swing with a fun character."
