

Discreet Shipping

Designed with your privacy in mind, every step of the way.

We believe in every woman's right to discover her body on her own terms, to find out what she likes and what she doesn't, no matter what stage of her sexual journey she is on.

Privacy and confidentiality are crucial to this, which is why they are at the forefront of everything we do and we have taken thoughtful steps to ensure that.

Packaging

- The name Mauj does not appear anywhere on the product or on its box.
- Sayl's instructions are located on the inside of the packaging to give away as little as possible about what's inside the box.
- The label on your Sayl bottle is easily removable, meaning you can store it more discreetly at home should you wish.

Shipping

- The name Mauj does not appear as the sender's name on your package.
- The shipping envelope does not include any information on Mauj.

Designed with Care

Keeping Sayl discreet is important to us, which is why we've designed the packaging and shipping process to reveal as little information as possible.

Invoice and Payment

- The purchase invoice is issued under another brand name, with no mention of Mauj.
- Another name will appear on your debit or credit card receipt instead of Mauj.

Mauj is here to help you discover your body safely and to provide you with the support and assistance that you need. If you have any additional questions or concerns that were not answered here or in our FAQs, please don't hesitate to reach out to us.

