

Employee Work/Health Balance Boosts ROI & Retains Talent

Now, with many of the challenges of the pandemic measures behind us and employees returning to in-person roles, employers are realizing the success of their business relies even more heavily on the health and wellness of staff. And with more emphasis on mental health than ever before, a top corporate fitness solution is to provide access to a fully equipped, user-friendly fitness space that is open and welcome to all – the typical newbie fitness-goer as well as those with a healthy regime already in place.

At the Treadmill Factory, we know that corporate wellbeing programs now accommodate most of the holistic wellness aspects like Yoga and Mind/Body Fitness too. To meet those needs and more, we'll help you establish a fitness space with industry-leading wellness solutions. We have it all – cardio, strength, and functional training equipment and accessories from every category of fitness imaginable that display state-of-the-art features, and can be customized to any space. Already a well-known fact, employees who participate and are engaged with their employee wellness programs are more likely to be healthier, happier, and more productive, which means better organizational productivity, talent retention, and higher ROI.

With over 30 years of equipping Canadians with the biggest selection of highly customizable premier brand equipment, the Treadmill Factory is focused on helping companies create a stand-out user experience that will attract more usage and create positive work culture. Employees that have flexibility during the workday to exercise, plus the advantage of a workout space nearby, will have lower stress levels, improved cognitive performance and are less irritable.

Facility Planning & Design for Success

We understand corporate environments require much more focus on identifiable program objectives, metrics that measure success in meeting objectives, and determining the return on their investments. When your company partners with the Treadmill Factory's Facility Planning & Design experts, we'll also complete a Needs Assessment.

As a new build or existing space, your stage of planning or concept development is a tailored experience, eliminating obstacles to concept and design. We combine space and equipment that meets your unique facility floor plan requirements and specifications, including user demographics and budgets. We then bring your vision to life using 2D and 3D rendering for cutting-edge design that highlights accessibility and functionality of your space.

Installation & Project Management

From coordinating flooring to ensuring your equipment package is properly installed, our installation professionals will also have your layout spatially configured for aesthetics as well as optimal functionality and usage. Plus, we can provide training for your staff to ensure proper use and care for machines and accessories to maximize safety and longevity.
