Spring at Last!

01/04/2022

It's my absolute favorite time of the year. The evenings get longer, the birds are singing in the trees, it's time to get the seeds sown; and all the daffodils and spring bulbs are in flower! There's plenty of things to do in the garden in April, there's no better time to think about a fresh new look, get some pruning done after winter, and really brighten up your garden again! Here's some fresh ideas and things to do this Spring!

- Spring bedding plants like Violas and Pansies come into full flower soon and they can really give your garden some extra colour early in the year, we've recently gotten fresh stock available on the website and in-store too!
- Roses planted last year will need some pruning now, cutting away deadwood, cross branches, as well as making sure to cut buds that lean out from the stem, leaving space along the middle if possible.
- Dahlias are beginning to sprout at this time but should still be kept safe from any frost, to make sure our Dahlias blossom every time we only sell them from May onwards, when we can be certain they will survive the outdoors.

I'm looking forward to writing further updates every month on the most important tasks in the garden, and to give more insight into the goings-on here at the nursery on our website blog, coming soon!

...Happy Gardening!

About the Three Gates Nursery

Balbriggan Horticultural show as a young boy with my grandfather. I can still remember my first arrangement, a jam jar with some wildflowers!

Since then I have been competing both up and down the country and abroad, especially in the UK, winning a Silver Medal in the Chelsea flower show in 2010. Here at the Three Gates Nursery I have the space to grow my own flowers for wedding arrangements, competitions and customers across the country.
