Other Helpful Feeding Transition Tips to Consider

- Stick with one type of protein initially.
- Once fully transitioned to raw, protein sources can be alternated with short (3-4 days) transition periods.
- Start with a neutral protein such as pork to avoid potential food incompatibility/allergies.
- Transition more slowly with older dogs.
- Dogs already eating raw can transition more quickly.
- Dogs with sensitive stomachs should transition more slowly.
- Pay close attention to your dog's stool. If loose, increase transition time.
- Ensure your pup drinks plenty of water.
- Limit treats during the transition.
- If resistant to new food, try the following:
 - Warm the food slightly.
 - Top or mix with Albright's tripe.
 - Mix raw with water and add to old food in small quantities.
- During transition, if feeding your dog twice a day:
 - Option 1: Mix raw with old food both meals.
 - Option 2: 1 meal all raw, 1 meal all old food.
