il vicolo

Marche IGT Rosato

Production area

Ripatransone and neighbouring towns.

Wine varieties

Montepulciano, Sangiovese.

Picking method

By hand.

Average yield per hectare

8/9 tons of grapes.

Vinification

Short maceration of grapes followed by fermentation off the skins, with soft pressing and débouillage of the musts under controlled temperature.

Organoleptic characteristics

Bright pale pink colour. Fruity aroma with notes of white-fleshed peach and strawberry. Fruity and well-balanced on the palate.

Serving suggestions

Recommended with appetisers and fish soups.

Take one look up and one to the sides. Yes, the road is narrow. Extremely narrow in fact, barely 43 cm wide!

You are in the narrowest alley in Italy, in the town of Ripatransone.

Don't worry, you can either turn back or decide to go through. And then proudly claim to have made it across.

With its pale pink colour and fruity aroma, 'il vicolo' Marche IGT Rosato celebrates this unique and bizarre place, which challenges your sense of perspective.

In one glass, two views of the world, two perspectives that make their narrow way towards a shared memory.

Serving temperature

We recommend serving at 12/14°C.
