

Dan Penn & Rich Coombes

HERD MENTALITY™

Whatever you do, don't stand out

Welcome to Herd Mentality! If you already own the game and know how to play, you can use the mooverlous components from the main box and get cracking. You've herd all this before.

But if these are pastures new, here's a quick breakdown of what to do.

1. First you'll need a pen and paper, for keeping score and writing answers.
2. The other thing you'll need is a 'pink cow' – these are pretty rare, so our advice is to find something else that's bright pink (or that looks cow-ish!)
3. Read out a question. Each player writes down the answer they think most other players will also pick.
4. Everyone shows their answers. Players who gave the answer that was most common get 1 point. Everyone else gets nothing
5. If two different answers are equally common, no one gets any points.
6. If a player is the only one to give an answer that doesn't match at least one other, then they get the pink cow.
7. If you have the pink cow, you can keep scoring points, but you can't win the game. You can only pass it on when someone else gives a stand alone answer, during another question.
8. The first player to get 8 points is the winner!
9. If you have a draw, play first to 9 points... then 10... and so on until someone ends up one point ahead of everyone else.

What is the best potato chip?

What is the most boring sport to watch live?

Name a very cold country.

Name the biggest fruit you can fit in your mouth without chopping it up.

Would you rather be the richest person in the world or the smartest?

Name one of Santa's reindeer. (Not Rudolph).

Would you rather have a statue of yourself or a painting of yourself?

What is the stickiest food?

What is the best Christmas movie?

Name an occupation
beginning with B.

Name an animal that doesn't have a tail.

How many Big Macs could a normal person eat in one 20-minute sitting?

At what time does breakfast become lunch?

What is your favorite kitchen utensil?

Name a movie trilogy.

If you could rig the Sorting Hat, wich Hogwarts house would you choose?

What would be the best game show to go on?

Name one of the Seven Dwarves.

What is the best room in the house?

What is the best Disney film of all time?

